Capture St. Charles Ax Man; He Confesses

PAROLEE TELLS OF ATTACK ON SPONSOR'S WIFE

Desperado Trapped on South Side.

Kane county officials were trying last night to wring from Vivian Denton the true motive for his hatchet attack upon an elderly farmer's wife last Friday.

Henry Ruf, who phoned police.

Denton, a parolee from the unwalled St. Charles Training School for Boys, was turned over to the authorities yesterday by a Chicagoan in whose home he had sought refuge.

Meanwhile state senators, aroused by the most recent outrage an inmate of the school has committed, rebuked social workers and reformers. Their coddling of vicious young criminals was blamed by the senators for the attack.

Sheltered in Police Station.

Denton, who is 17 years old, astonished authorities with the disclosure that Rockford police permitted him to sleep peacefully in their station Friday night while a widespread hunt for him was in progress. Rockford police said they were unaware of the crime, although Sherif Marcus W. Damisch of Kane county said he felt certain they had been notified.

Calmly, without sign of remorse, the parolee demonstrated precisely how he broke his victim's skull with the hatchet when he was taken to the scene of the crime yesterday by Sherif Damisch and State's Attorney Charles O'Connor.

Denton did not even ask the elderly woman's condition. In a matter of fact tone he confessed that he thought she was dead when he fled her home two miles west of Geneva after beating her unconscious.

Victim Near Death.

The victim, Mrs. Meta Christiansen, 77 years old, was near death last night in the Geneva Community hospital. She was under the care of Dr. Eric Oldberg, University of Illinois brain specialist sent by Gov. Henry Horner.

Denton came Saturday afternoon to the home of Henry Ruf, 4542 South St. Louis avenue, with whom the Denton family had been acquainted. The boy said he had been paroled from the school but said nothing of the crime, of which Ruf had not heard.

Yesterday Ruf read the story of the crime in a newspaper. He summoned Policemen George Yunker and Norman Ade of the New City station. They arrested Denton. It was believed that Ruf would receive a $500 reward offered by Gov. Horner for the apprehension of the desperado.

Parolee Tells of Attack.

Denton was taken to Geneva for questioning by the sherif, the state's attorney, and A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare. The parolee told of being taken to the Christiansen home by a school representative on Friday morning to work while on parole for Mrs. Christiansen and her husband, Chris.

Christiansen put him to work and left on business.

Young Denton shucked corn a while and then went to the house to get soda for a stomach pain. Then, he said:

"I told Mrs. Christiansen, 'I don't want to stay. I think I'll leave.'

"'You can't do that,' she told me. 'I'll have to call the St. Charles school.' I told her not to.

Hacks Woman with Hatchet.

"She had her hand on the phone when I hit her with the hatchet and knocked her to her knees. She said, 'O, Vivian, please don't hit me.' I

TORNADOES KILL 41 IN 3 STATES; 125 ARE INJURED

2 Arkansas Towns Are Destroyed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Texarkana, Ark., April 16.—[Special.]—Center Point, a village one mile west of Collins, and 25 miles from the Mississippi river in eastern Arkansas, was destroyed early tonight by a tornado that left twenty dead and many missing. Dozens were injured. Others were injured at Marked Tree, Monticello, Eldorado, Rison, and Capron. Whether any were killed in these towns was not known. At Capron every building was demolished.

Of the twenty killed at Center Point, sixteen died when the storm wrecked a church where funeral services had just been conducted. Of the 200 at the church many were injured. The Rev. Thomas West of Collins was among the dead. County Judge L. W. Bell estimated that the dead at Center Point would reach thirty. On nearby farms nine Negroes were killed.

Leaves Only Hole in Ground.

Sip Roper, a resident of Center Point for 67 years, said the tornado left only a hole in the ground where the village had been. Rescuers worked in the dark searching for the injured to give medical aid.

Earlier in the day and last night tornadoes struck five communities in northeast Texas, northwest Louisana and southwestern Arkansas and killed twelve persons, making a total of 41 dead in the series of storms. More than 125 were injured.

Storms Start in Texas.

The series of tornadoes which swept through the southwest started last night. The first place hit was Pipe Creek, Tex., a farming community where four persons were killed and eight injured. The storm cut a four mile path and leveled virtually all buildings.

At 5 o'clock this morning another tornado struck Richland, Tex., caused $50,000 damage to property, and injured four persons.

An hour later Athens, Tex., forty miles southeast of Dallas, was hit. One woman was killed and a farm couple was injured. In Athens, where the storm ripped through an area 1,000 yards wide and more than a mile long, the body of Mrs. Hubert H. Skinner was found pinned beneath timber from her home. Her two children were unhurt.

Destruction Near Texarkana.

A few minutes before noon another tornado laid waste an area two and a half miles wide and four miles long just west of Texarkana. Dozens of houses were demolished and forty-four persons were injured, several of them seriously. The number of dead, if any, was not known.

By 2 p. m. the storm area had moved into northwestern Louisiana and centered on Haynesville, a small town five miles south of the Arkansas border. Seven persons were killed and twenty-four or more were injured in Haynesville. Cutting through an area seventy-five yards wide and half a mile long in Haynesville, the tornado demolished thirty houses and damaged the town's power plant.

National Guard Gives Aid.

Medical aid was sent to Haynesville from nearby towns and a company of CCC youths and a company of National Guardsmen were sent to the town to help with rescue work and to provide shelter for the stricken families.

Late in the day Mrs. J. A. Gabbie, wife of a plantation superintendent, was killed when her home near Tillar, in eastern Arkansas, was blown apart by the wind. Several farmers on the plantation were reported to have been injured and serious damage was done to buildings.

4 Die; Hundreds Flee Ohio Flood.

Cincinnati, O., April 16.—(AP)—Due to heavy rains the Ohio river moved slowly toward flood stage tonight as swollen tributaries drove hundreds of residents from their homes. Relief agencies prepared to move lowland dwellers in Kentucky, Ohio, and West Virginia to places of safety.

Four deaths were attributed to flooded streams. Two drowned in Indiana, one in Ohio, and one in West Virginia.

"RALLY 'ROUND THE FLAG, BOYS!"

Jail Broker and 2 in Konkowski Witness Deal

Charles W. Wiedbusch, a broker dealing in city judgments, was arrested by state's attorney's police last night as he was offering $400 to a witness in the forthcoming trial of former Ald. Frank Konkowski of the 26th ward and Stephen Idzikowski, a political worker.

Konkowski and Idzikowski were originally indicted on two charges of conspiracy to defraud in connection with promises to get applicants on the police force. They were acquitted March 25 of one of the charges. The second is still pending. Arguments to quash this charge are to be heard today by Judge William J. Lindsay.

Nabbed in Home of Witness.

Wiedbusch was arrested in the home of the witness, Paul P. Rozek, an insurance broker, at 2033 Augusta boulevard, by Detective John J. O'Keefe. Wiedbusch said he was acting for Idzikowski and Idzikowski was later arrested. Izikowski's brother, Chester Walker, 4220 Augusta boulevard, who changed his name 20 years ago, was seized for questioning.

The case goes back to 1936 when Rozek says he paid $600 to Idzikowski to get his son Edward a favored spot on the police list. However, when the police lists were posted Edward failed to get a job and $100 of the $600 payment was refunded.

About two weeks ago Wiedbusch, it is charged, told the elder Rozek he might get back the $500 balance. Rozek notified Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Bugan, who assigned Detective O'Keefe to the case.

For more than a week O'Keefe lived at the Rozek home. Last night Wiedbusch appeared. O'Keefe hid in a bedroom and listened.

Asks Aid in Quashing Case.

According to Bugan, Wiedbusch said to Rozek and his wife:

"I have $400 for you. All you have to do is to appear before Judge Lindsay in the morning, tell him you're tired of appearing as witnesses in the case and do nothing to oppose the motion to quash the charges. Then you'll get your $400 back. Later you'll get the other $100."

Mrs. Rozek asked to see the money. As Wiedbusch took it out of his pocket, O'Keefe stepped out, arrested him, and seized the money.

ZOO DISCOVERS WHAT'S EATING ON MONKEYS; IT'S LADIES' NEW HATS

Monkeys at Brookfield zoo have been reacting strangely to women visitors this spring. Bouncing up and down wildly, squeaking in hysteria and making bold grabs at onlookers, they have baffled their keepers.

Yesterday Robert Bean, assistant director of the Chicago Zoölogical park, discovered the reason for their excitement. It's the ladies' new hats. The monkeys think they are good to eat.

"We just rescued one little confection," Mr. Bean said, "It was straw color, trimmed in front with a big pale green flower. It looked like lettuce, and the monk was going crazy. We found other simians were doing the same thing. We only hope they'll settle down when they get used to the styles."

It Takes the Siren to Get Firemen Out for Photos

Mountain Lakes, N. J., April 16.—(AP)—The annual photographing of the volunteer fire department was set for 9 a. m. today, but only a handful showed up. The rest either forgot or overslept. The early birds, tiring of burnishing their engine and dusting off their uniforms, gave the siren a couple of whirls. A large group sat for the picture.

Union Officer Is Shot, Picket Hurt; Seize 6

Harry Thieme, financial secretary of the egg handlers' union, was shot in the right arm and a union picket was beaten yesterday in a fight between a store owner and his employés and union pickets and officials. The shooting occurred in front of a produce store at 6520 South Cicero avenue. The store has been picketed for ten days by four unions which are trying to organize its employés.

Chicago Lawn and Willow Springs police arrested six of the participants in the fight, including Thieme, and took him and the injured picket to Holy Cross hospital. Thieme was released from the hospital later.

The injured picket is William Levin, 26 years old, 4151 Van Buren street. He is a member of the egg handlers' union.

Pickets Accused of Vandalism.

Police said the trouble started when Herman Wadler, owner of the store, discovered that two of his trucks had been damaged during the night. He said the tires had been cut and the windshields broken.

He accused the pickets, stationed in front of his store, of the vandalism.

Several employés joined Wadler in the fight. The pickets were aided by Thieme, who is 43 years old, and lives at 5361 South Artesian avenue, and John J. Moran, a business agent for the meat cutters' union, who was sitting in a car near by. Then Herman Brandt, 230 South Loomis street, a clerk in the store, ran out firing a pistol. One bullet struck Thieme.

Five Freed on Bonds.

Moran, Wadler, Brandt, and Harley Morgan, 5739 South Meade avenue, and Gene Jaeger, 6326 South Kilpatrick avenue, drivers for Wadler, were arrested along with Thieme. The pickets fled and did not return.

Police charged Wadler with assault and battery and Morgan, Jaeger, Moran, and Thieme with disorderly conduct. All supplied bonds. Brandt was held on an open charge.

Wadler told police the unions placed pickets at his store after he refused to sign a union agreement with the egg handlers', meat cutters', grocery clerks' and teamsters' unions. Police said the unions had asked for protection a week ago, asserting that their pickets had been intimidated.

Hitler Studies How to Say 'No' to Roosevelt

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 16.—Nazi officials in Munich today declared that Reichsfuehrer Hitler might answer President Roosevelt's peace appeal in a speech. The Fuehrer left Munich tonight to resume his vacation which was interrupted by hurried conferences in the Bavarian city on the President's message.

Hitler departed on a special train to make a trip through Austria. He is expected to return to Berlin either Tuesday night or Wednesday morning for the celebration of his 50th birthday on Thursday.

Press Rejects Proposal.

Nazi officials said the Fuehrer's plans for replying to Mr. Roosevelt do not alter the frantic rejection by the German press of the President's proposal for ten or twenty-five years of peace and a disarmament and economic conference.

It was intimated that Hitler was studying how best to say "No" to the Roosevelt appeal without putting Germany on record as having designs on the thirty-one countries the President mentioned in his message.

Hitler conferred with Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop this morning. After the conference the foreign minister returned to Berlin where some of his assistants had drawn up a five page statement about Mr. Roosevelt's note. The statement was climaxed with the assurance that "after the bitter experiences of decades, the authoritarian states will increase their vigilance and their determination never again to be the victims of their gullibility."

Diplomats Hail Roosevelt.

For once Mr. Roosevelt's action met with the wholehearted approval of most of the foreign diplomats stationed in Berlin. Usually they shrug their shoulders and speak about America's youthful naïveté in diplomacy. Today the French, British, Scandinavian, Dutch, Belgian, Swiss, and Polish diplomats were of a different opinion.

"The storm of fury which Mr. Roosevelt's message raised in the German press must have revealed most clearly to all nations interested that Nazi Germany was singing a song of denunciation in order to camouflage her determination not to accept nonaggression negotiations which would handicap her or Italy in their program of expansion," one of the diplomats said.

"Mr. Roosevelt's message attempted to make a generous gesture; that it met with a repulse is not to America's discredit."

"Peace Impossible Now."

"The real purpose of Mr. Roosevelt's telegram is to increase the anti-German agitation," said the newspaper Montag. "Peace is not synonymous with the status quo in Europe. Peace is only possible if equal rights shall be created for all in all European districts and if the whole of Europe unites to fight bolshevism."

The paper declared that the reaction to Mr. Roosevelt's message in Paris and London showed it had been prepared together with the French and English democracies.

Paints U. S. as War Profiteer.

The Boersenzeitung pictured the United States as a war profiteer anxious for war.

"Americans have a greater interest in the preparation for war—such as the barter of wheat and cotton for rubber and tin—than in war itself," the paper said. "In view of the danger of the policy aimed at reviving 'prosperity,' America has a direct interest in the development of war in Europe. Not as a participant—unless it be to transport a million jobless persons to European battlefields—but as the deliverer of supplies!"

Foreign office officials said the tension between Germany and Poland has eased slightly. They said Josef Lipski, Polish ambassador, has returned to Berlin with statements from his government that Poland is ready to discuss in principle the differences between the two nations in diplomatic negotiations. However, rumors persisted that the Nazis plan to take over the Free City of Danzig as a gift for Hitler on or before his birthday Thursday.

[Dispatches from Warsaw said official circles and the press declare that if the Germans march into Danzig, Poland would consider this a one-sided decision, leading to grave action.]

PRESIDENT PUTS NATION IN ROLE OF POLICEMAN

Pact Would Follow Disarm Parley.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 16.—[Special.]—The most sensational commitments since the world war to cast America in the rôle of joint underwriter of world peace are being made behind the scenes of official Washington.

President Roosevelt's appeal to Hitler and Mussolini to keep the peace for at least ten years is only the outward semblance, it transpires, of a policy designed to give the United States virtually the position in European and Asiatic affairs it was allotted by the league of nations covenant which was rejected by the American people twenty years ago.

Same Old Objective.

The United States declined to enter the league of nations because of overwhelming public sentiment opposed to entanglement of our country in foreign political quarrels, entailing the possible obligation of sending American armed forces abroad again to redress the balance of the old world. Mr. Roosevelt, then an ardent advocate of the league of nations, is now seen to be moving to attain the same objective in another manner.

If the President succeeds in procuring peace pledges from the dictatorships and democracies and calls a world disarmament and economic conference, he will be prepared, unless checked by congress, to commit the United States to participation in some sort of arrangement to maintain the status quo in Europe. Such arrangement might take the form of the consultative pact which the President offered Europe in the disarmament conference of 1933.

Bound to Consultation.

Norman Davis, head of the American delegation in that conference, announced in behalf of the President that the United States in consideration of agreement on reduction of armament would be willing to join in a consultative pact. Under the terms of such a treaty the United States would be bound to consult with European powers on measures to be adopted to combat any threat to maintenance of the territorial status quo.

Such measures might require the United States to furnish troops and ships to help defeat an attempt by Hitler to recover colonial possessions wrested from Germany by the British and French in the world war.

The genesis of the Roosevelt nonaggression proposal is shrouded in much mystery. Whether it originated on this side or the other side of the Atlantic is not known. There is close coöperation between London, Paris, and Washington and it may well be, as is rumored, that the suggestion came originally from Paris where Ambassador William C. Bullitt, ardent Francophile and fertile diplomatic strategist, exercises a potent influence on the President in the shaping of our foreign policies.

Welcomed by Allies.

Whatever the origin, the French and the British interpreted the Roosevelt proposal as a step toward the negotiation of nonaggression pacts which would maintain the territorial status quo in the same manner as the league of nations.

The only important difference would be the inclusion of the United States among the guarantors of the territories won by Britain and France in the world war.

The President is prepared to commit the United States to a consultative pact as well as to measures assuring Britain and France of the moral and material support of the European democracies, short of war, in the clash with the dictatorships. He is exerting his influence in behalf of modification of the neutrality act to permit the United States to participate in sanctions against an aggressor or at least to permit the United States to furnish arms and other military supplies to Britain and France in time of war as well as peace.

Contends U. S. to Be Involved.

Mr. Roosevelt adopted as his own view the assertion of the Washington Post editorial that the United States cannot avoid involvement in another European war. Yet he contends that such involvement will not require the United States to send its army and navy to Europe.

This attitude is reminiscent of that of Woodrow Wilson in the famous "sunrise" conference following his secret agreement with England that the United States probably would enter the world war if necessary to defeat the central powers. Mr. Wilson said it would be necessary to send our fleet only. And after we declared war he did not intend to send an army until the envoys of the allies came to Washington and successfully pleaded for American troops.

Mr. Roosevelt contends that his policy of aiding and abetting British and French efforts to stop Hitler and Mussolini offers the most effective chance of averting war and constitutes the most efficacious defense of the United States in the diplomatic first line trenches. The opposition in congress is based on the contention that he is meddling in European affairs and that such meddling is likely to involve us again in a European war, with ships and men and treasure furnished again on a prodigal scale.

Impatient at Opposition.

With the opposition to his policy the President is extremely impatient. He regards such opponents as traitors to their country who are furnishing aid and comfort to the dictators.

The reason for the sudden return of the United States battle fleet from the Atlantic ocean to the Pacific still remains a mystery. One theory is that the President wishes to reassure the American people that despite his intervention in European affairs he does not expect a war with the dictators immediately. Another theory is that the President deemed it wise to have the fleet in the Pacific where its mere presence might deter Germany and Italy's ally, Japan, from attacking American and British possessions in that region.

[European naval strategists have been quoted as believing Hitler proposes to get the greater part of his fleet out of the North Sea, possibly basing it in Spanish ports. These ships then would be available for raiding British and French troop and supply lines. Meanwhile the Japanese could raid the British naval base in Singapore, thereby preventing the British from keeping all their naval forces in European waters.]

FINDS 17 NATIONS IN AMERICAS O. K. ROOSEVELT PLEA

Washington, D. C., April 16.—(AP)—Seventeen nations of the western hemisphere have backed President Roosevelt in his peace appeal to Hitler and Mussolini, according to the state department tonight. The nations are Canada, Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Salvador, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Peru, Uruguay, and Venezuela.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull and a number of department officials spent some hours at their offices today carefully studying dispatches from American ambassadors and ministers abroad.

62 Families Cross Into France; Ousted by Italy

NICE, France, April 16.—(AP)—Sixty-two French families ousted from their homes in the Isola region near the Italian-French border today crossed into France. They were the last of more than 100 families ordered to leave last year when Italy reclaimed the territory which had been cultivated jointly by French and Italians since 1860. On entering France, the farmers destroyed three wooden bridges between the two countries.

A vigorous campaign will be concluded today by candidates on the tax economy league ticket in Elmwood Park. The election for village positions will be held tomorrow. Candidates on this slate are: For village trustees—Dawson J. Gillaspy, Ralph Pacini, and Adolph J. Bochte. For police magistrate—H. Irving Ripstra, incumbent, and for library board members, Mabel M. Gill and Florence Rodgers.

The opposing slate is comprised of incumbents, with the exception of Alvin J. Kvistad, candidate for police magistrate, who now is justice of the peace. The others are: For village trustees, Urban V. Bedard, Nicholas Fanella, and William J. Tracy; for library board members, Alfred F. Fricke and Marie Blaha. It was incorrectly stated in the northwest metropolitan edition of THE TRIBUNE yesterday that this ticket was unopposed.

NEUTRALITY TO BE IRELAND'S POLICY, SAYS DE VALERA

ENNIS, Ireland, April 16.—(AP)—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera declared today that only the mercy of providence can save Europe from a war more terrible than the last. He proclaimed a policy of neutrality for his nation.

Eamon de Valera.

"The desire of the Irish people and the desire of the Irish government is to keep our nation out of war," De Valera said. "The aim of government policy is to maintain and preserve our neutrality."

The prime minister, addressing constituents, advocated more defense preparations "so that no one can hope to attack us."

He indorsed President Roosevelt's peace appeal and asked, "Is it possible that it could be rejected?"

De Valera urged the union of Ireland with Northern Ireland [Ulster].

"Is it too much to hope," he asked, "that in this time of impending danger our fellow countrymen in the northeast, who differed from us in the past, would join with us for defense of those rights we hold in common? From a united Ireland Britain would have nothing to fear.

HITLER IS WARNED BY POLES AGAINST COUP AT DANZIG

WARSAW, April 16.—(AP)—Authoritative sources said today that bestowal of honorary Danzig citizenship on Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler next Thursday, his 50th birthday anniversary, would leave Poland indifferent. It would be a grave matter, it was added, should the Nazi leader have any intention of adding Danzig itself to Germany.

Arrow locates Danzig.

The free city, established as such under league of nations supervision and within the Polish customs administration, is located at the mouth of the Vistula, Polish river, and serves as an important Polish outlet to the sea.

Polish official circles and the press have declared in strong terms that Poland never will agree to onesided settlement of the Danzig problem.

It was indicated in official circles that entry of German troops into Danzig would be considered a onesided decision. It would make no difference if the troops avoided Polish territory by marching from East Prussia. Talk of German guarantees of Polish economic rights in a Danzig held by Germans, officials said, would be impossible.

Predictions of armed annexation of Danzig by Germany on a precise date have appeared more than once during the last few years.

Rumors current in Berlin that Danzig will be grabbed as a present for Hitler on his birthday do not greatly worry the Poles now.

The Polish press welcomed President Roosevelt's peace appeal today, but its enthusiasm was tempered by doubt.

Said the Nationalistic newspaper Wieczor Warszawski:

"Full success seems improbable. It is, however, possible that the message may postpone the time table of war and eventually cause a certain change of the Italian stand."

RUSS PRESIDENT CABLES PRAISE TO ROOSEVELT

MOSCOW, April 16.—(AP)—President Michael Kalinin of soviet Russia cabled President Roosevelt congratulations today on his message to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and Premier Benito Mussolini.

Kalinin said Roosevelt's message found the warmest echo in the hearts of the people of the soviet union.

Kalinin has the title of president as head of the all-Russian central executive committee.

There has been no indication of the outcome of conversations yesterday between Maxim Litvinov, commissar of foreign affairs, and British Ambassador Sir William Seeds concerning Anglo-French guarantees to defend the independence of Poland, Rumania and Greece.

Fun lost with lost keys

FEW losses can cause more immediate inconvenience than the loss of a bunch of keys. To recover keys or any other lost possession, there is one logical course to follow.

Whenever you lose anything of value be sure to telephone a Lost and Found want ad to the Chicago Tribune. Thousands of dollars' worth of property is restored each year to owners who advertise in the Lost and Found column of the Tribune.

Regardless of what you may have lost, or where in Chicago or suburbs you may have lost it, there is a good chance that a Tribune reader will find it.

As an extra service to Tribune Lost and Found advertisers, all such ads are kept for three months after publication in a special register open to the public at the Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 S. Dearborn Street and in Tribune Tower, 435 N. Michigan Avenue.

Every day of the week, the Tribune is read by more than 725,000 families right in metropolitan Chicago. This is practically as many as read any two other Chicago newspapers combined.

Further, the Tribune is Chicago's big want ad marketplace, carrying far more want advertising and, as a result, attracting far more want ad readers than any other Chicago newspaper.

CALL SUPERIOR 0100—WANT AD-VISER

and ask for Miss Miller if you have lost something recently. Miss Miller will help you word your want ad. If your name is in the phone book, you may charge your Tribune want ad.

PREDICT IL DUCE WILL TURN DOWN ROOSEVELT PLEA

Goering Visits Mussolini; Reply Believed Drafted.

ROME, April 16.—(AP)—Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering of Germany concluded his visit to Italy tonight with a talk with Premier Mussolini in which it was believed an Italian - German reply — probably negative — to President Roosevelt's peace appeal was drafted.

Field Marshal Goering.

Sharp Fascist criticism of the President's action presaged a rejection of his request for a ten year pledge to refrain from military action against thirty-one nations.

When an answer would be sent to Washington, D. C., was not known, but high Fascist quarters made plain their hostility to Mr. Roosevelt's plea.

Predictions of a rejection were based largely on unfavorable reaction to Mr. Roosevelt's message in Germany, with whom Italy now is acting in complete unison.

Flat Rejection Doubted.

Diplomats doubted if Il Duce would send Mr. Roosevelt a flat rejection of his proposals. They thought it more likely that he would acknowledge the President's appeal with the argument that nobody was threatened by Italy, therefore nobody needed Italy's formal pledge of nonaggression.

The Fascist press published the full text of the message without comment.

Newspapers followed it, however, with the German observation that it had been sent to the wrong addresses—that it should have gone to Great Britain and France who, they said, were attempting to encircle the Rome-Berlin axis partners.

See Move Against France.

Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, was silent on the peace message.

He said in the newspaper La Voce D'Italia, however, that with the Albanian problem settled, Italy "is passing on to other subjects."

"And European history-in-the-making offers many different ones of vital interest," he added.

This was regarded in some diplomatic circles as possibly meaning that Italy might press her claims on France for colonial concessions if the French government failed to make a move toward a settlement.

King Accepts Albanian Crown.

Albania's union to Italy was completed today with a ten minute ceremony. King Victor Emmanuel formally accepted the crown of the little Balkan kingdom.

The Albanian deputation, headed by Premier Verlaci, presented no actual crown to the Italian sovereign. Verlaci read a presentation proclamation, however, at a ceremonial audience in the Quirinal palace attended by the Italian court.

Actress in Chicago

Lya Lys, Viennese film star imported to Hollywood for the title rôle in the anti-Nazi film, "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," spent a few hours in Chicago between trains yesterday. She was on her way to New York from Hollywood to appear in the première of the film, her first American picture.

KENNEDY GUEST OF KING; DISCUSS U. S. TOUR PLANS

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, April 16.—Joseph P. Kennedy, American ambassador to London, conferred tonight with King George VI. of Great Britain and Prime Minister Chamberlain on the projected royal tour of the United States and Canada. The conversation took place in the king's private study at Windsor castle, where Kennedy and his wife were guests over the week-end.

The Daily Mail said King George and Queen Elizabeth will carry out the trip as scheduled unless war occurs or its outbreak appears inevitable.

The Daily Herald said James Roosevelt, eldest son of President Roosevelt, attended a dinner party at Windsor castle tonight at the king's invitation. Young Roosevelt, said the Herald, chartered a twenty-one passenger plane at a cost of $300 to fly from Brussels to England for the occasion.

U. S. Warship Reaches Japan with Saito's Ashes

YOKOHAMA, Japan, April 17.—[Monday.]—(AP)—The American cruiser Astoria, escorted by a Japanese cruiser and a destroyer, arrived today with the ashes of Hiroshi Saito, former Japanese ambassador to the United States. A twenty-one gun salute was fired in honor of Saito, who died in Washington on Feb. 26.

BRITAIN PUSHES SCHEME FOR AIR PACT WITH REDS

Startled by Rumors Nazi Plot Danzig Coup.

LONDON, April 16.—(AP)—Great Britain pushed her plans for an air alliance with soviet Russia today amid reports the Rome-Berlin axis would reject President Roosevelt's peace appeal.

The welcome accorded President Roosevelt's move was dampened somewhat by rumors Germany intended to take over the Free City of Danzig.

Some observers thought Germany might occupy Danzig, a part of her territory before the world war, as a birthday present for Reichsfuehrer Hitler, who will be 50 years old on Thursday

Problem Up to Poland.

British officials said it was up to Poland to say whether such a step menaced her independence. If she did, they said, Britain would fulfill her pledge to aid Poland as Prime Minister Chamberlain promised March 31 in his declaration before the house of commons.

In unofficial quarters, however, it was thought possible that Chamberlain might put pressure on Poland not to plunge Europe into war over Danzig if a move were made against the free city.

It was pointed out that Danzig, at the head of the corridor which separates East Prussia from the rest of Germany, has a population which is 96 per cent German.

Await Results of Parley.

The result of conversations under way in Moscow between Sir William Seeds, Britain's ambassador, and Maxim Litvinov, Russia's foreign commissar, over the British proposal of a joint British-French-Russian air pact against aggression was awaited eagerly.

Such a pact, if it were effected, would be a great bulwark to Chamberlain's anti-aggression policy, it was pointed out. It would assure the members of the bloc and especially Poland, of the backing of the large soviet air fleet, observers said.

Ivan Maisky, soviet ambassador, will see Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax on his return to London tomorrow and there were unofficial reports a pact with Russia had been almost concluded.

FRANCE HOPEFUL OF GETTING REDS ON ALLIES' SIDE

PARIS, April 16.—(AP)—France intensified diplomatic efforts today to bring Turkey and soviet Russia into the stop-Hitler bloc. Sources close to the foreign office said prospects of obtaining soviet aid for Poland and Rumania in event they became objects of aggression continued to be hopeful.

The French chargé d'affaires in Moscow was scheduled to talk today with foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov. French sources said the conversation might bring important developments.

Jakob Surits, soviet ambassador who has conferred almost daily with Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, had a new conference at the foreign office on his program for tomorrow. Bonnet saw the Turkish ambassador, Suad Davaz, on what informed sources said were negotiations paralleling those with Russia.

ROYALISTS FIGHT TO BREAK ITALY'S GRIP ON FRANCO

Military Revolt Looms in Spain, France Hears.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 16.—Italian and German plans for the use of Spain in case of war are creating serious complications for Generalissimo Francisco Franco, chief of Nationalist Spain, and he may soon face a military revolt, according to reports reaching Paris.

Opposition to foreign domination, according to these reports, is rife not only among the pro-English supporters of former King Alfonso, but also among the Carlists [Navarre monarchists]. The Carlists supplied Franco with his only good all-Spanish infantry during the civil war.

This is no new story as far as the Carlists are concerned, though it seems to have taken a more serious turn recently. From the beginning all Carlist leaders have been loath to accept German and Italian aid on the scale which was offered. Several of them have gone into exile rather than submit to such assistance.

Saved Franco from Defeat.

Among these are Manuel Fal Conde, leader of Spanish Carlists before their forced merger with the Falangists [Fascists]. Fal Conde was chiefly responsible for raising and drilling the Navarrese volunteer army which saved Franco and the other rebel [Nationalist] generals from defeat in early days of the civil war.

Now the Carlists are reported to be hiding the arms they captured from the Republicans [Loyalists] in the mountains of Navarre just as they did for years during the republic.

Refuse to Join Parade.

Several of Franco's best generals, Solchaga, Barron, Garcia Valino, Monasterio, Moscardo and Vignon, are said to be ardent Carlists and to be violently hostile to both the Germans and Italians.

According to one report, the real reason for the postponement of the Nationalist victory parade in Madrid from May 2 to May 15—assuming that the latter date is definite, which is far from certain—was the refusal of certain Carlist generals to participate in it side by side with German and Italian troops.

FRANCO HONORS SEVILLE

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SEVILLE, Spain, April 16.—Generalissimo Francisco Franco, chief of Nationalist Spain, today inaugurated Seville's victory celebration—the first to be held in Spain since the civil war's end—with a speech to a cheering crowd in Calvo Sotelo square, which formerly was Jerez square.

[José Calvo Sotelo, early Fascist leader, is a Nationalist martyr. He was assassinated in Madrid in July, 1936. His death was one of the causes of the Spanish civil war.]

Gen. Franco told the crowd that Spain has 1,000,000 men under arms and that as Spaniards they are worth 5,000,000 others. Tomorrow Franco will review 45,000 of those men who make up the southern army. This afternoon there was a gala bullfight.

Surprise for Seville.

The surprise move to give the honor of the first of the victory fêtes to Seville instead of Madrid was revealed only yesterday. Without show or ostentation El Caudillo [The Chief —Franco] slipped into town last night.

From a balcony at noon today he thanked the Seville citizens for their loyalty and praised their part in the victory, but he carefully avoided political subjects.

The speech was interrupted constantly by bursts of cheering from thousands who had waited for two hours in the broiling sun.

The day started with the procession of the Virgin of the Kings, which usually is held in August, but was moved up this year to mark the victory. Two thousand young Falangistas [Fascists], many of them not more than 5 years old, also paraded through the square just before El Caudillo's speech.

Flanked by Generals.

Seville gives a perfect setting for such a show with dazzling sunshine and a typically Spanish city as the background. The famous Moorish guard, brought here three days ago, added still more color, with blue capes lined with snowy white; white breeches and turbans, dark blue tunics, red sashes and the hooves of their horses painted bright blue.

Gen. Franco was flanked on the balcony by Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, Seville's idol, and Gen. Fidel Davila. Also there were Ramon Serrano Suner, Franco's brother-in-law and minister of interior, who is acknowledged to be Spain's second in command. All of the general staff is here as well for the celebrations.

As THE TRIBUNE correspondent drove here yesterday, the roads were full of troops for the last 100 miles. Sixty-four field guns of various calibers, twelve armored cars and dozens of trucks full of men were passed in the last few miles, all pouring southward.

More than 2,200 students attended the dance, held last night at the university ice skating rink.

GIBRALTAR GETS READY TO PROVE ITS WAR MIGHT

Food Stored; Caves Hewn to Hold Thousands.

GIBRALTAR, April 16.—(AP)—Four French warships arrived unexpectedly at Gibraltar today amid reports of intense military and naval activity in the Mediterranean.

All arms of Britain's fighting services buttressed Gibraltar's strength in an effort to insure the impregnability of her two and one-half square miles of territory, key to her Mediterranean fighting power.

Two of the French men of war were battleships, the Lorraine and Bretagne. The others were the destroyers Le Fantasque and Le Terrible.

Defense Booms Block Harbor.

The ships were unable to enter the admiralty harbor because the British have placed defense booms at both entrances. Their commanders visited British naval authorities.

Continued reports of concentrations of troops and war materials in Spanish ports near here spurred the British activity, particularly the erection of additional barricades facing the neutral zone on the north, between British and Spanish territory.

For defense of the civil population a $240,000 air raid precautions scheme was being hurried to completion. It includes the hewing of a tunnel deep under solid rock for shelters for 1,200 persons, and the conversion of scores of caves into refuges for Gibraltar's population of 17,000.

Food Ready for Siege.

Food supplies sufficient for the whole population for several weeks have been stored against possible siege, and 25,000 gas masks have been made available to the population.

Anti-aircraft guns and batteries of heavy artillery are emplaced high on the upper rock. They are considered sufficient to meet any attacks.

Detachments of the royal air force are building a landing field on Gibraltar's only flat stretch of land, an area near the neutral zone.

3,500 Men on Duty.

The military garrison is composed of two battalions of infantry, three batteries of heavy artillery, one anti-aircraft battery, two companies of engineers, and signal, medical, ordnance, pay, and veterinary detachments. There is also a section of military police. The force totals about 3,500, all ranks.

The 1st battalion of Welsh guards will be sent to Gibraltar on or after April 22 to strengthen the fortress' power.

Bonfire Sets Off World War Shell; Hits Neighbor's Door

North Arlington, N. J., April 16.—(AP) — Paul Spanjer, 33 years old, started a rubbish fire in his back yard today and a neighbor a quarter of a mile away had a three foot hole knocked through his front door. The neighbor, E. C. Riplinger, picked up a large piece of an eight inch shell. Spanjer said the shell probably had been hidden close to the surface of the ground for 20 years. There is a world war munition plant near here. To reach the Riplinger home the shell fragment had to hurdle the three story Woodrow Wilson school building.

POPE BIDS SPAIN TO REVIVE IDEALS OF CATHOLICISM

VATICAN CITY, April 16.—(AP)—Pope Pius XII. appealed to the new rulers of Spain and to the Spanish clergy today to lead their wartorn country back to the ideals of the Catholic church. The pope, speaking in Spanish, broadcast his plea through a microphone set up in his private library. He told his bishops to counsel benevolent kindness in bringing "those who have been led astray back to the principles of the church."

In extending his "paternal congratulations for peace and the victory which has been granted by God," the pontiff praised those who he said fought in the defense of civilization against the spread of atheism.

He told the Spanish bishops it was their duty to lead all Spaniards back to the faith and acceptance of the principles of the church as part of the work of reconstruction. Generalissimo Francisco Franco, head of Spain's new government, drew commendation from the pope.

Albanian Queen's Condition Better, Says Wire to Mother

NICE, France, April 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Gladys Stewart Girault, American-born mother of exiled Queen Geraldine of Albania, arrived at her villa here today after fleeing before the Italian occupation. She said she had received a telegram from Larissa, Greece, that Geraldine's condition was improved.

MEXICO BOOMS A CARDENAS ALLY FOR PRESIDENT

30,000 Gather at Opening Rally in Bull Ring.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, April 16.—Mexican politics boomed today when 30,000 persons gathered in the bull ring to hear President Lazaro Cardenas' candidate, Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, fire the opening gun of his campaign for president in 1940. Camacho was minister of defense until he resigned in January.

Gen. Avila Camacho.

Besides the main assembly here, there were similar gatherings in the forty-two largest towns of Mexico. Five thousand miles of wire services were used to broadcast speeches here to the other cities.

At 8 a. m. delegations carrying large banners, colors, and streamers began gathering in the arena, which was filled with chairs. By 9 o'clock the upper grandstand seats were filling.

Propaganda from the Air.

The Mexicans, who naturally like color, outdid themselves. There were bands, flags, bright dresses, placards, confetti, balloons, and fancy paper hats. Planes circled overhead dropping propaganda leaflets. Many small, gaily decorated balloons were released with time fuse bombs attached. The bombs burst the balloons several hundred feet up, releasing many parachutes bringing Camacho propaganda slowly downward.

Sections of the crowd were organized in cheering groups. Organized yells in Spanish sound like songs because of the quality of the language. The spirit of joyous Mexican play is rougher than the fights of some other peoples. Sticks, bottles, and wet sacks were tossed about.

Many large banners were displayed saying:

"Cardenas, the revolution; Camacho, its guarantee."

Opposition Inside Family.

The right hand man of the Cardenas-Camacho combination, Vicente Lombardo Toledano, the supreme boss of Mexican labor, arranged the meeting in conjunction with the National Federation of Peasants.

The first voice of opposition in the campaign came from Camacho's brother in San Antonio, Tex., attacking the sincerity and integrity of Toledano.

Other disgruntled voices point out that the people themselves are getting tired of being ordered about, and by the time the election date arrives the people may bolt and back Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan or some other popular candidate. Gen. Almazan, who commands the 70th region army corps, has not announced his candidacy, but informed sources say he is now in Monterrey winding up his affairs preparatory to resigning from the army to make the presidential race. A candidate for office cannot be an officeholder at the time he is running.

Fight Rich Union Leaders.

The secretary of the Youthful Students' union was the first speaker today. He was a regular spellbinder and in a dramatic oration he shouted that thousands upon thousands of Mexican youths are giving their backing to the dream of liberty which has materialized under Gen. Cardenas' régime. He said Mexican youth is against any union whose leaders are getting rich. Young people recognize and endorse all of Cardenas' ideas, he said. He assailed "foreign capital coming in and sucking the lifeblood of the nation."

The next orator was a woman, defending the rights of women. She told her listeners that women are used to running men. A heckler yelled that if women would make cheaper bread they could have anything they wanted.

Follows Cardenas' Policy.

Gen. Camacho received an ovation. Attempting no oratory, he outlined the ideology of the Cardenas régime in which he had taken a formative part. All the theories, he insisted, are wholly Mexican, for the best interests of Mexico, and will be carried out under his régime as they are at present. Outside influence or ideas are not welcome here, Comacho said.

Gen. Camacho said the army would be used only to support the ideas of the people. "The army, itself unified, cannot vote and therefore is not in politics," he said.

With the generals, however, it is different. Several of them probably will resign and enter the presidential race.

Considerable excitement stirred the city last night when an outlaw opposition union announced that it was also having a mass-meeting to test public support. Lombardo Toledano notified them that his men would disperse the meeting. Many people looked for an old fashioned Mexican scrap and a boom for undertakers. Police prevented the outlaw meeting.

RETURN OF U. S. FLEET TO PACIFIC SOBERS JAPANESE

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, April 16.—News that the American fleet is returning to the Pacific was regarded here today as having a sobering effect upon Japanese jingoists. They have been boasting that as soon as war breaks out in Europe Japan will be able to grab everything she wants in the far east.

President Roosevelt's order to the fleet is considered here as relieving the tension over danger to Hongkong, French Indo-China, and the Dutch East Indies.

The President's peace appeal to Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, while not duplicated to Japan, also is believed to have been addressed to that country because of the fleet's movement to the Pacific. It is felt the presence of 120 additional American warships in the Pacific may deter Japan from openly aligning itself with Germany and Italy in case of war.

Left Off Roosevelt List, Iceland Is Astonished

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, April 16.—Astonishment was created here by the omission of Iceland from the list of European states whose integrity President Roosevelt asked Hitler and Mussolini to guarantee.

GRAND JURY QUIZ IN STRIKE KILLING EXPECTED TODAY

The grand jury today may begin an investigation into the slaying of James Lawrence, a trucker, and other acts of terrorism that have accompanied a strike of union drivers and truckers for the Wieboldt Stores, Inc. Efforts will also be made during the day to end the strike, which has been in progress since April 6.

A union organizer, who was taken into custody after an automobile used by the sluggers of one store driver had been traced to him, will appear before Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley of the Criminal court on a hearing for a writ of habeas corpus. The grand jurors last week ordered him held for further questioning. He is Fred Thomas Smith of the Electrical Workers' union, local No. 134.

Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed police, ordered twenty-five police squads to protect company drivers today. Seventeen squads have been on duty. The unions involved in the strike are locals 711 and 725 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Ideas

You will agree with us, we are quite sure, that the first and most important factors in the success and satisfaction of home decoration and furnishing are the IDEAS upon which designs, materials, color schemes and arrangements are based.

The IDEAS of accepted designers and home owners alike have been changing very notably in recent years and especially within recent months. Right now, there is a wealth of new conceptions which are vitally affecting the environments of living.

There are new TRENDS, which every home lover should know.

Our entire housefurnishings organization, including a large, experienced staff of designers and decorators, is always on the alert. These men and women are constantly in touch with all of the best sources of information on fashions and trends, here and abroad. They have the wholehearted and effective cooperation of the best manufacturers we know, in providing the best in design and the most in value.

All of their new ideas, together with the accepted best in traditional design, are brought together in a vast which opens throughout our housefurnishings sections this morning.

HOME TREND SHOW
(for Spring and Summer, 1939)

We hope that no one who is planning to decorate or refurnish this spring, whether a single room or an entire home, and whether spending a large or small sum, will miss this helpful opportunity.

One thing, at least, will astonish you: the amount of tasteful design and substantial quality which you can buy at modest cost.

Three newly decorated and furnished houses, on the Eighth Floor—Trend House, Modern House and Thrift House—embody many of the newest IDEAS. You are cordially invited to see them.

WHAT would you like to do next? Write a letter? Make a phone call? Find a place to clean up? Snatch a few moments' rest and a cigarette? Keep rendezvous with a friend? Get some postage stamps? Send a telegram? Receive a written or phone message from some one outside? Purchase theater, grand-opera, ball-game or concert tickets? Recover a lost article? Arrange for air, bus, rail or steamship accommodations? Secure information about Chicago and its suburbs—or on the latest travel tours and resorts? Perhaps take a personally conducted trip through the store? . . .

Of a dozen or more different services like these, pleasantly available in Field's third-floor waiting room, several hundred thousand people take appreciative advantage, each year. Many discover the completeness with which numerous needs of the moment can be met, as a first-time surprise. Others have made this section part of their enjoyment routine for years; and complimentary comments regarding its hospitable facilities come to our attention constantly.

Established more than thirty-five years ago, this helpful feature of the store has steadily expanded in scope and usefulness, in order to render every individual's stay at Field's as satisfying and convenient as possible. Central location makes it an ideal meeting-place for shopping Chicagoans; out-of-towners find it a "natural" for leaving or receiving messages, and arranging sightseeing itineraries; and on busy days as many as five hundred persons are congregated here at one time. Store tours are regularly scheduled at 10:30 and 2:30 daily; and in addition to an Information Bureau, there are Lost and Found, Theater, and Travel Bureaus, writing rooms, washrooms, all within a few steps' distance of each other.

One of the most constructive of these services centers in a loose-leaf register, open on the Information Desk, whose ruled pages are headed: "By prearrangement, patrons may keep informed regarding each other's movements, make or cancel engagements, or convey messages through the medium of this book. Patrons will be paged in the waiting room upon request."

Here, in short, is enacted all the droll, unexpected and ingratiating by-play of humanity . . . with scenes and episodes of every imaginable type. Both as spectators and participators, we derive as much pleasure from rendering these human services as any patron to whom they may provide a timely assistance.

U. S. DAM PROJECT ROUSES WRATH OF INDIANA FARMERS

Most Fertile Fields of Two Counties Endangered.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bedford, Ind., April 16.—[Special.]—Farmers in Lawrence and Martin counties are organizing to fight a government flood control project which they declare will make a lake bed of rich bottom lands in the two counties.

The effect, they protest, will be to destroy the value of their farms, leave them stranded on the hillsides and perhaps throw owners or tenants upon WPA and other relief agencies. So far most of those affected have been making their own way, they boast.

The project contemplates a dam ten miles above Shoals, Ind., to form a reservoir on the east fork of the White river, a tributary of the Wabash. It would submerge about 58,000 acres of land, said to be among the richest in the area. The farmers say it would be more destructive to agriculture than the floods.

Reservoir 90 Miles Long.

The reservoir would lie in Martin, Lawrence, Jackson and Washington counties. It would store about 1,300,000 acre feet of water—an acre foot being the amount of water which will cover an acre to the depth of one foot.

Engineers say the reservoir would stretch sixty to ninety miles up the river and creeks. The dam would be of concrete, about 95 feet high, with a spillway 1,360 feet long and a nonspillway portion of 890 feet—a total length of 2,250 feet for the dam. These figures are those of the army engineers at Washington.

Development of the project would cost about $11,750,000. Half of this would go for land acquisition.

Surveyors are busy in the area. In at least one instance they have been chased off the land by an irate owner for coming on without permission.

Plan Protective Association.

Farmers have been meeting in groups and are talking of forming a protective association to exert pressure on vote-seeking politicians. A protest petition with 557 signatures has been forwarded to Washington. Funds are being raised to send a legal representative to the capital.

At present the project is in the research stage. The army engineers so far have not learned how many farmers would be driven from their most productive land. The project is authorized by the flood control act approved June 28, 1938, which authorizes expenditure of $75,000,000 for reservoirs and $50,000,000 for local protection work, as set forth in the plan for flood control in the Ohio riven basin. This plan was drafted by the army engineers after the 1937 flood.

Landowning farmers in the region say the projected reservoir would raise the water four feet higher than in the flood of 1913—the year of the Dayton flood.

Whole Towns Endangered.

Bedford and Mitchell would have to put in new waterworks, according to critics of the undertaking; five or six villages would have to be largely relocated, twenty-two miles of railroad track would have to be rebuilt and stretches of concrete highway would have to be relocated.

Among the farmers suspicions are voiced that the flood control project at Shoals is interwoven with the Hoosier Hills Forest area development. Under this plan three townships in Martin county—Brown, Baker, and McCameron townships—and part of Mitcheltree township

Fight Flood Plans

(Story in adjoining column.)

Farmers of Lawrence and Martin counties in Indiana are organizing to fight government flood control plan which they declare will put rich farm land of both counties at the bottom of a lake. The project contemplates a dam 10 miles above Shoals, Ind., on the east fork of the White river, as shown on map. It would create a reservoir 90 miles long, submerging about 58,000 acres of land.

have had most of their land turned into a park.

About 35,000 acres have been taken from Martin county as part of a park tract advertised to be created by the national government. In the park is a lake of about 4,000 acres. The scenic advantages of Martin county are being set forth as a lure for tourist trade. Most of the park land was supposed to be submarginal, and the removal of the natives from their hills was dwelt on as a resettlement matter.

Farmers Resent Moving.

Old Indiana agricultural stock, farmers declare, is being chased off its old homesteads to make a vacation spot for tourists with trailers. In a trip over the area a day ago farmers were found vehement in their protests.

Irwin Carmichael has 235 acres. When his mother bought the homestead in 1884 the deeds show it was part of the old Erie canal land grant. Carmichael, a short time back, chased the surveyors off his place as trespassers—they had neglected to ask permission to wander over the premises. He has been active in the protest movement.

"It's the strong against the weak," he said. "The bottom lands are the bread basket of my farm. I can grow 60 to 80 bushels of corn to the acre.

Driven Off by 'Coons.

"Now they're talking of putting in a dam and submerging these fat acres—the best land in this county—just to create a reservoir, a lake to be stocked with fish. It would send us to the hills, and we'd have to move from there because we'd be isolated.

"Look at this envelope advertising fish hatcheries, deer, and game birds for this park the government has created in the northern part of this county. Since when did raccoons and deer become more important than these families who stand to lose their bottom lands if this flood control project is not stopped?

"If the reservoir goes through, our bread basket land is taken: then they'll take the hills away, too, and hard working farmers who have managed to pay their way and keep off relief will be forced upon WPA and other relief agencies."

4,000 Women Will Sell Paper Doughnuts Today

Chicago's busiest street corners wil' be taken over today by 4,000 women who will sell paper doughnuts, symbols of the Salvation Army service to the city's poor and needy. Funds from the sale will be used to support the institutions in which the women's division of the organization has a special interest. They are the home and hospital for unwed mothers, the women's emergency lodge, and the fresh air camp for mothers and children.

JUDGES' FIASCO ENDS COALITION, ASSERTS MOORE

G. O. P. County Chief Hits Ticket Procedure.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Edward F. Moore, chairman of the Cook county Republican central committee, said yesterday that the record written by the Republican and Democratic judicial conventions Saturday had put an end to coalition tickets except possibly in times of great emergency.

Other Republican leaders supported this view. Even some Democrats who discussed the subject privately admitted there may never be another coalition ticket.

The all day jockeying between the two party conventions was compared to a dissection which disclosed to the public all the old secrets of this phase of bipartisanship.

G. O. P. Clique Flounders.

The expose came when, after the clique in control of the Republican convention floundered too long in the performance of its parts of the brother act, the Democrats dropped all pretense of agreement through negotiation and named the exact ticket they wanted. The Republican majority clique could do nothing but join the anti-coalition minority in putting up an all-Republican ticket.

"Coalition had become a vicious habit," said Chairman Moore, "and the public now has been given too much of a look at the inside workings to stand for it again unless there arises such an emergency as brought about the first big coalition in 1921.

"That 1921 coalition was in defense against a political raid upon the bench. Sitting judges with excellent records were threatened with elimination to make room for political pets. Republicans and Democrats combined and stopped the raid.

Moore Assails Procedure.

"But ever since then that precedent has been used to permit the political organizations to put their own selections on the bench without giving the people any choice in the matter.

"That procedure is a violation of American principle, but the full extent of its evil possibilities was not brought home in any previous election the way it is this year. The [Republican pro-coalition] combination that amassed enough voting power to control our convention had done so by allotting three judgeships. The Democrats were unwilling to give them but two. The combination could not choose two out of its three without breaking down its whole structure.

How Democrats Met Problem.

"The Democrats met the problem by selecting the two Republicans they wanted.

"In addition to this parceling out of judgeships, it became known that eight new judgeships to be provided by a bill pending before the legislature were already being allotted.

"And they were being given to ward committeemen, not to judicial candidates. The complete plan provided for the handpicking of thirteen judges."

DOORN, The Netherlands, April 16.—Former Kaiser Wilhelm II. stood on the steps of his home today to welcome his great-grandson, Prince Ferdinand of Prussia. The child was brought to Doorn on a visit by his parents, Ferdinand and Kira. The former kaiser, who is 80 years old, works in his garden daily.

PATROLMAN SHOT TO DEATH AS HE TWIRLS A PISTOL

Elton Hurth Norris, a special policeman for a patrol service, stood in the parlor of Mrs. Laura Frisbie's home at 7527 South May street early yesterday twirling his revolver on his finger. When Mrs. Frisbie asked if the gun were loaded Norris replied: "No; it's empty." A moment later the weapon was discharged and Norris was shot in the head. He died half an hour later in St. George's hospital. Norris had called for Mrs. Frisbie to attend services at St. Leo's Roman Catholic church, Emerald avenue and 78th street.

CHICAGO POLICE NAB ST. CHARLES AX DESPERADO

Parolee Admits Attack on Sponsor's Wife.

hit her five or six times and ran out.

"I could have just walked away. She couldn't have stopped me. I don't know why I did it. I must have had a sudden urge."

Denton said that after the attack he went upstairs and put on the new suit the school had given him, took 80 cents from his victim's purse and fled in the farm truck. Forty miles west of the farm he abandoned the truck and begged a ride from a Chicago woman who was driving with two little children. She took him to Rockford.

There Sergt. Folke Bengston said he permitted the boy to spend the night in the police station. Saturday morning Denton hitchhiked east to Elgin and thence to 79th street and Kedzie avenue. From there he went to Ruf's home.

Seek Whole Story.

Authorities said Denton was not telling the whole story. They continued to question him last night in the county jail in Geneva.

The hatchet crime came as a joint legislative committee was in the midst of an investigation of the St. Charles parole system and the escapes from the unwalled institution. Fox River valley citizens have been complaining of the menace to women and children created by the easy escapes.

State Senator Arnold F. Benson of Batavia, a member of the committee, said:

"The outrages centering in the St. Charles school reached a new peak in the murderous assault upon a farm housewife. This shocking condition must be terminated."

State Senator Peter P. Kielminski of Chicago, another member of the legislative committee, said social workers and so-called reform organizations must share the blame for the St. Charles school scandals.

Denton was sent to the St. Charles school April 8, 1938, after his career of attempted burglary, bicycle stealing, and street light smashing culminated in the theft of clothes and a gun from a family in Kankakee county with which he had been placed by social workers. His own family lives in Momence.

Although he was an unruly boy who once escaped from the St. Charles school, officials entrusted with his care considered him a safe person to parole into the home of an aged couple.

Route of Ax Wielder in Flight

The route of Vivian Denton, parolee from the St. Charles School for Boys (1), who fled on Friday after attacking his benefactor's wife with a hatchet on the Chris Christiansen farm (2). He escaped in a truck stolen from the farm and abandoned it (3). Then he hitch-hiked to Rockford (4), where he spent Friday night in the city jail. On Saturday he hitch-hiked to Chicago, where he was seized yesterday at 4542 South St. Louis avenue (5).

NAB ST. CHARLES CRIME GRADUATE FOR A BURGLARY

While a parolee from St. Charles School for Boys was being questioned yesterday about a hatchet attack upon an elderly woman, a young man, said by police to have been freed after eighteen months in the institution, was confessing a burglary. He is William Du Bock, 21 years old, of 2625 North Kedzie avenue. Police said he was freed three years ago after serving eighteen months for filling station burglaries. He was arrested with Arthur Casterton, 18, of 4442 North Drake avenue. The young men, police said, confessed stealing $12 and $20 worth of merchandise from a grocery at 4049 Francisco avenue.

SEIZE DESPERADO IN N. Y.; SOUGHT IN INDIANA KILLING

New York, April 16.—[Special.]—Two Indiana state troopers and two New York detectives seized Claude Dickerson tonight when he walked out of his home in Jamaica. He was jailed as a fugitive from justice from Indiana. He is wanted for the killing of Wood Carter, a bank cashier, in a bank holdup in Bloomingdale, Ind., on March 20, 1936.

Dickerson was described as the last of the Perkins gang which committed fifteen bank robberies, several jail deliveries, and numerous holdups in the middle west and southwest from 1934 to 1936. Dickerson is 30 years old. For the last year he worked as a glazier and lived quietly with his wife.

In the Bloomingdale killing, it is charged that Dickerson and Paul Mills broke into the bank and waited for employés to arrive. Carter, who opened the bank doors, killed Mills in a gun fight and then was shot to death. Of the eight members of the Perkins gang, police said five have been killed and two are serving prison sentences.

2 BANDITS SHOT BY POLICE HERO ON HIS DAY OFF

Put Three to Flight in Bold Gun Fight.

Policeman William Ryan, off duty and in civilian clothes, had just made a purchase yesterday in a dry goods store at 813 West Roosevelt road when three young men rushed in the front door. Each brandished a gun and wore a handkerchief mask.

William Ryan.

"This is a stick-up!" shouted the leader. "Everybody get down on the floor."

Sam Esses, the owner, and four men and women customers complied immediately, but Ryan remained standing. He realized that the others were not in the line of fire if the robbers concentrated on him.

Searches Policeman for Gun.

"Hey, you, get down," ordered the leader, approaching Ryan. "What's the matter? You got a pistol?"

As the robber started to search Ryan, the policeman pushed him away, and began to unbutton his topcoat.

"I haven't any gun," said Ryan. His coat was almost open. "Let me alone," he continued, stalling for time. "I don't like to be shoved around."

Then he drew his service revolver and fired at the robber. The bandit staggered. Ryan said he saw blood gush from a face wound.

Dropping on one knee Ryan turned his gun on the other robbers. They opened fire, retreating toward the door. At the doorsill, one of them stumbled, as if wounded. By this time all three were outside.

Assist Third Into Auto.

Ryan saw two of the robbers assist a third into their automobile. Having fired six bullets from his own gun, Ryan paused to reload, then rushed outside to the street. The robbers' car, however, sped east and disappeared before he could shoot again.

"There certainly was a lot of lead whizzing around me," commented the young policeman as he sat in the Maxwell station discussing the affair. "And I still can't figure out why that first guy didn't shoot me before I could get my coat open."

Policeman Ryan is a comparatively new member of the police department, which he joined four years ago. He is 35 years old. His home is at 130 North Lotus avenue.

Four Leap Into Atlantic from Blazing Boat; Saved

(Picture on Back Page.)

New York, April 16.—[Special.]—Their 42 foot launch Bounty, a mass of flames, four men were forced to leap into the cold Atlantic two miles off Manhattan beach today. Although hampered by heavy winter clothing they managed to keep afloat until a fishing trawler rescued them after they were in the water twenty minutes. The fire threw a heavy pall of smoke that was visible to a Sunday afternoon crowd of 50,000 on the Coney Island boardwalk. The four rescued men, all of New Brunswick, N. J., were taken to Coney Island hospital. They are Benjamin Santoian, Charles Karakoosh, George Csigi, and Edward Godwin.

BOY SCOUT DRIVE TO RAISE $90,000 WILL OPEN TODAY

Campaign Crews to Meet at Luncheon.

Chicagoans who wish to return the Boy Scout's good deed to the city's 22,600 Scouts are going to have an opportunity to do so.

Business men and other volunteer workers of the Chicago Council of Boy Scouts will open their 1939 campaign for $90,000 at a luncheon in the Chicago club today. The money will be used to finance the Scout program for the next year.

John F. Fennelly is general chairman of the campaign. He will explain the plans for raising the money in an address to the campaign chairmen, loop captains, and team workers at the luncheon. All are volunteer solicitors.

District Drive Heads.

District chairmen are M. B. Whitehead, C. D. Oakley, L. C. Connor, Richard M. Lenihan, David H. Reimers, and Charles P. Murray.

Mr. Fennelly said yesterday that he has more than 150 business and professional men workers in the loop district alone.

Six thousand adults, including the campaign workers, are doing volunteer Boy Scout work in Chicago.

Value of Scouting Told.

"Scouting needs support from the citizens of Chicago," Mr. Fennelly said. "Americanism is no bedfellow of tyranny. The American principles of individualism have no sympathy with totalitarianism. Therefore the Scout movement, embodying allegiance to God and country, building our future citizens, is worthy of your support."

At meetings and in camps Scouts are trained in woodcraft and first aid, as well as in citizenship. The money raised in the financial campaign will be used to finance this training and to help pay the costs of the Scout camps.

CANTON ISLAND TO BE IMPROVED AS AIR LINE BASE

New York, April 16.—(AP)—Within two weeks Pan American Airways will dispatch an expedition to Canton Island, a coral atoll in mid-Pacific, to establish a base for airliner service between San Francisco and New Zealand.

Already extensively surveyed, the 6,000 mile route via Hawaii will be flown by one or more of the new 41½ ton flying boats being built by the Boeing Aircraft company of Seattle.

When service formally will be inaugurated has not been announced, but the work of the forthcoming expedition to the island—now under the joint sovereignty of the United States and Great Britain—will be completed, it was indicated, by Aug. 1.

YANKEE CLIPPER COMPLETES ITS OVERSEA FLIGHT

Baltimore, Md., April 16.—(AP)—The seventy-four passenger flying boat Yankee Clipper arrived here at 11:41 a. m. Chicago time today from Bermuda, completing its first round trip trans-Atlantic flight to Europe.

The 42 ton plane, carrying twenty-two men, left Horta, the Azores, at 10:10 a. m. yesterday and landed in Hamilton harbor, Bermuda, at 3:35 a. m. Its speed had been cut to 119 miles an hour by head winds.

A pelting rain spattered the giant's wings as it settled to the Patapsco river in a routine ending to what Pan American officials termed a routine inspection flight to Europe.

Since the Clipper lifted into the air here March 26 it covered 11,071 miles in 84 hours flying time. It visited Pan American ports at Horta, Lisbon, Marseille, Southampton, and Foynes, Ireland. A veritable winged hotel, the Clipper soon will be inaugurated in regular trans-Atlantic flights to Europe. Its luxurious equipment is complete, even to a bridal suite.

MISTS OF YEARS KEEP LIFTING TO REUNITE FAMILY

3 Johannes Brothers and Sister Now Together.

Eight days ago two elderly brothers who had been separated for 35 years were reunited in the Oak Forest infirmary. One, William Johannes, had been a patient there for 28 years; the other, Adolph, for 5 years.

On the morning after the news of the reunion was published an excited woman about 55 years old rushed into the office of Frank Venecek, superintendent of the infirmary. She said she was Mrs. Anna Loebel, 14528 South Sawyer avenue, Midlothian.

"Where is he? Where is Adolph?" she cried. "I knew William was here, but Adolph—I thought he was dead a long time ago. I'm his sister Anna. Please take me to him."

Recognizes Her and Weeps.

Venecek led Mrs. Loebel to the infirmary's hospital section, where Adolph, who is 60, has been confined to a bed since entering the institution.

Adolph peered at Mrs. Loebel through weary eyes as she repeated, "I'm Anna, your sister Anna."

Then he smiled feebly, "Yes, yes. It's you, my little sister Anna," he said. He reached toward her and both wept as they clasped wrinkled hands.

Then William joined his sister and brother and the three talked over old days and how the family broke up 37 years ago after both parents had died.

Soon the conversation turned to another brother, whom none of them had seen for more than three decades.

Hospital Head Gets Busy.

"Where do you suppose Ferdinand is?" asked Adolph. "I wonder if he's still living?" Mrs. Loebel and William shook their heads.

Venecek then asked what work Ferdinand had done when last heard from. Mrs. Loebel said she believed he had been employed in a barrel manufacturing plant. "He must be nearly 70 years old now," she said.

Last week Venecek telephoned several cooperage factories in Chicago and surrounding towns. None had an employé named Ferdinand Johannes.

Then, on Friday, Ferdinand, now 67 years old, was located working for the Pioneer Cooperage company at 446 North Hoyne avenue. At first he was skeptical. "Why, my brothers and sister must be dead by now. . . . I haven't seen them for 30, maybe 40 years."

Weeps as He Embraces Trio.

But he promised to come to the infirmary. Yesterday, at a "reunion luncheon" arranged by Venecek, he stared for a moment at Adolph, William, and Anna. Then he sobbed and embraced each.

The event had an unusually happy effect on Adolph. For nearly five years he has been bedridden. Yesterday he got up, dressed, and went down to the dining room table with his newly found sister and brothers.

The brothers and sisters separated following the death of their widowed mother. They lost addresses, and had never been able to communicate with one another since.

BANDITS SILENCE VICTIM BY THREAT TO KILL CHILDREN

Two masked bandits terrorized Bernard and Mrs. Myrtle Hayden in their apartment at 7359 North Seeley avenue last night by threatening to kill their two sleeping children.

Hayden, a credit manager, and his wife were held up in the vestibule of their home and forced to take the gunmen into the apartment. "If you cry," one of them warned Mrs. Hayden, "we'll kill your children." The latter, Gloria, 10 years old, and Barbara, 7, were sleeping in a room with the maid.

Mrs. Hayden promised to obey. The bandits ransacked the apartment. They left with a fur coat, a fur neckpiece, several rugs and watches, and cash for a total of $3,075. Before leaving they forced the Haydens into a closet.

Seize Man Who Escaped from House of Correction

Stanley Budkus, 24 years old, who escaped March 6 from the house of correction, where he was serving a term for tampering with automobiles, was recaptured last night in a tavern at 5621 South Ashland avenue, by Policeman Edward Smurawski of the New City station. Frank Calindo, 17, escaped with Budkus, but was turned over to police next day by his mother, Mrs. Carmilla Calindo, 2904 Lexington street. Both Budkus and Calindo were trusties.

IDENTIFY SLAIN RAPIST AS THUG VETERAN SHOT

Warren avenue police said last night that Edward Calabrese, 22 years old, who was found shot and fatally wounded in his home at 321 South Mozart street, was one of two bandits who attempted to rob a world war veteran Saturday evening.

The veteran, who fired at the bandits when they attempted to rob him and his wife in the passageway of their home, is Antonio Guarascio, 3030 Harrison street, owner of a wholesale meat market. He was carrying $350 at the time. He told police he fired several shots, wounding one of the robbers, who fled with the aid of his confederate.

Calabrese was found wounded in his home soon afterward and died yesterday in the Bridewell hospital. He gave two explanations for his wounds. Both were false, police said. Calabrese served a year in Pontiac reformatory for rape and was discharged a year ago. Robbery victims will view his body in the county morgue.

Guarascio was wounded fighting with the 109th infantry in the Argonne during the war.

Now—faster more complete telephone service for you!

AGAIN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE PIONEERS UNIQUE IMPROVEMENTS FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE

TWO NEW TELEPHONE NUMBERS, 30 ADDITIONAL INCOMING TRUNK LINES AND NEW AUTOMATIC EQUIPMENT TO BE FOUND NOWHERE ELSE IN THE WORLD PROVIDE INCREASED EFFICIENCY AND FASTER SERVICE.

EFFECTIVE today, the Chicago Tribune offers to readers, advertisers and the general public faster, more complete telephone service.

Now—three telephone numbers, 115 trunk lines and specially designed equipment are available to handle incoming calls with increased efficiency and speed.

To the 65 incoming trunk lines already assigned to the Tribune's regular phone number—Superior 0100—have been added 30 more for the Tribune's new Public Information Service number—Superior 0200.

Available also are 20 more trunk lines allocated to the Tribune's new Sports Bulletin Service number—Superior 0260.

These two new numbers and the unique equipment behind them will relieve any congestion of calls on Superior 0100 such as has occurred in the past when an unusual happening or event created sudden and tremendous public demand for news. They enable the Tribune to introduce a new bulletin service ten times faster than heretofore possible.

Facilities Enlarged Again and Again

Back in 1905, sports fans began to call the Tribune for baseball scores and other sports results. The Tribune responded and became the first Chicago newspaper to supply this information to all who asked for it.

Once started, it was soon necessary to expand this service to take care of other inquiries about the weather, highway conditions, election returns, floods, fights, war scares and other events of great current interest.

The Tribune's switchboard was enlarged again and again to accommodate extra operators; special circuits were set up; new trunk lines were added with thousands of miles of wiring. Continuously the Tribune's telephone department improved the handling of the fast growing public service and commercial trafic over Tribune lines.

Year by year the pressure grew heavier and the telephone department became a laboratory in which new devices and methods were initiated and perfected. As new problems cropped up, solutions were found until the equipment and skill of the Tribune staff became the pattern followed by newspapers and business firms throughout America.

Another Great Step Forward

Behind the improvement in service introduced today are months of planning in co-operation with six engineering groups of the telephone company. The new high speed handling of calls has been made possible by the development of new and unusual equipment—much of it specially designed to meet the Tribune's own specifications and not to be found in use anywhere else in the world.

Today, with a total of 115 incoming trunk lines serving Superior 0100 (editorial, circulation, advertising, W-G-N, and all business departments), Superior 0200 (Public Information Service), and Superior 0260 (Sports Bulletin Service), the Tribune offers the very latest and finest in telephone service.

In announcing this improved service, the Tribune invites you to make full use of it.

NEW HIGH SPEED BULLETIN SERVICE —NOW TEN TIMES FASTER

While all calls to Superior 0200 and to Superior 0260 will be handled at the Tribune's main switchboard under average trafic conditions, an ingenious apparatus specially designed by the manager of the Tribune's telephone department permits instantaneous transfer of massed inquiries regarding the identical event or happening from the main board into a new sound proof bulletin service room, where they receive group handling.

When, as on the occasion of a war scare, flood, or other unusual happening, calls load up the main board, they are automatically switched to the bulletin service room, which is equipped with a telephone cabinet enclosing special circuits and connected with an amplifier which enables a single operator to handle as many as thirty calls every twenty seconds.

During such rush or peak load periods handling of inquiries will be through brief bulletins. Inquirants may not engage the bulletin service operator in conversation. The new equipment is designed to deliver service at high speed to a large group simultaneously. You will not have to wait for the main board operator to connect your call to the bulletin room. All switching will be completed automatically the split second your inquiry comes in. You will get the bulletin you want ten times faster.

WISCONSIN LAME DUCKS SEEK UNITY OF ALL RADICALS

Democrats Act to Recoup New Deal Losses.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oshkosh, Wis., April 16.—[Special.]—Democratic New Dealers, swept out of office in the election of 1938, undertook here today to lay the foundation of a new political alignment of all radicals of the state under the banner of Roosevelt leadership and under the name of the Democratic party.

They created a new party committee into which they invited the present statutory state and county committees only on the provision that they pledge allegiance to the objectives of the group and accept their leadership. They repudiated Republican coalition and the present Democratic party leadership in the state.

The fading of the Democratic vote from 593,000 in 1932 to 78,000 in 1938 was attributed to mismanagement of those in control of party machinery.

Recall Split With Roosevelt.

"During this deplorable period in party management," according to a new declaration of principles issued by the new dealers, "every leading candidate and almost every party official was opposed to the policies of the Democratic national administration.

"We intend no longer to tolerate the rule in our party of any reactionary state leadership. We repudiate the unholy alliance between the Republican administration at Madison and the reactionary elements in our own party."

A group of county chairmen who met in Fond du Lac in April paved the way for today's meeting. It was dominated by Gustave J. Keller, chairman of Outagamie county; Edward P. Curry, chairman of Milwaukee county, and Jacob Waisman of Racine, former manager for William Swoboda, socialist mayor. Former Senator F. Ryan Duffy was in the background until just before adjournment, when he joined Charles P. Broughton and Mrs. George Givan, national committee members, in blessing the Roosevelt administration.

Tribune Under Fire.

Broughton spoke at length in an attack on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It was his idea that radicalism in Wisconsin and the country generally would make much more progress except for THE TRIBUNE, and that THE TRIBUNE as much as anything else is at fault for the defeat of New Dealism in Wisconsin. Duffy echoed Broughton's sentiments about THE TRIBUNE. He said he stopped reading it during his unsuccessful campaign for reëlection when THE TRIBUNE called attention to the fact that Duffy's law firm was profiting from fees on home owner's loan foreclosures in Fond du Lac county.

Broughton said he favored free speech, but there ought to be a law to prevent THE TRIBUNE writing about Roosevelt endangering peace in the United States by interfering in European affairs. Mrs. Broughton also spoke about "the insidious propaganda for peace," to which she said women were particularly susceptible.

LEGISLATIVE SCHOOL OF WOMEN VOTERS TO OPEN IN CAPITAL

Matilda Fenberg.

Illinois women will be prominent in the legislative scene at Springfield this week. Scores of them will attend a special school in procedure of the general assembly, sponsored by the Illinois League of Women Voters.

They will watch the progress of bills to place women on juries in this state. These bills are scheduled to be called on second reading in the house tomorrow, with a final vote in prospect for Wednesday. The senate has passed the bills.

"We have assurances of more than enough votes to pass the bills," said Matilda Fenberg, campaign chairman for the Illinois Committee for Women on Juries. "We are hopeful that the last major barrier to full citizenship for women will be removed this week."

Tribute will be paid by the visitors to Mary Todd Lincoln for her part in the success of her husband, Abraham Lincoln, and to Representative Lottie Holman O'Neill [R., Downers Grove], first woman to win a seat in the legislature. Ceremonies will be held in the house chambers at 3 p. m. Wednesday.

WINDOWS BROKEN IN FOREST PARK; BLAME VOTE ROW

The election fight in Forest Park to elect a mayor and village trustees tomorrow was blamed for the smashing of seven windows in buildings there early yesterday. Windows in the automobile of the Rev. Lon Hunter, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church, also were broken.

Tom Collis Jr., who is opposing Mayor Charles R. Hussey for reëlection, said his campaign stickers had been in the windows which were broken. He also said that the Rev. Mr. Hunter was supporting his campaign.

Mayor Hussey and Chief of Police Fred Licht said they did not believe politics was the motive for the window smashing. They said that at least two of the windows did not carry election placards. The windows were in stores or garages.

LAKE FREIGHTER BREAKS THROUGH ICE TO BUFFALO

Buffalo, N. Y., April 16.—(AP)—The lake freighter E. C. Pope entered Buffalo harbor today after a five day struggle to pierce a vast ice field extending 14 miles into Lake Erie.

Several miles behind the Pope the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Tahoma, from Cleveland, was breaking a channel through the floes for three automobile carriers which, with the Pope, had been held by ice since Tuesday.

Capt. John Daly of the Buffalo Coast Guard station said an easterly wind had sprung up which would move the ice pack into the Niagara river within a week.

GRANT PARK AUTO LOT TO REDUCE TAX LOAD $100,000

Every 25 cents taken in at the Grant park parking lot helps reduce taxes, it was pointed out yesterday by George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the Chicago park district. He said that as a result of recent improvements the parking area is expected to produce $100,000 a year. Mud holes formerly deterred many motorists from using the lot in wet weather. The area, which has a capacity of 3,500 cars, was graded and covered with gravel by WPA workers.

Washington's Advice

An excerpt from the Farewell Address of George Washington to the American people on Sept. 17, 1796:

Europe has a set of primary interests, which to us have none, or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence therefore it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves, by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics, or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships, or enmities.

GOVERNMENT REGULATION OF BUTTER.

Butter last week sold at the lowest price since 1933. And before 1933 butter had not reached present levels except on one occasion in the present century. Before that butter wasn't available at present prices in any year in the government's record, except in the depression years right after the panic of 1893. There is something radically wrong with the butter market.

From the standpoint of the consumer the situation is fine. But the dairy farmers are experiencing their worst depression. Many will go broke unless the situation changes. That will mean a lot of cows going to the butcher, and eventually the restoration of a price at which the average dairyman can earn a good living. The readjustment process will be hard.

Every one connected with the dairy business, even remotely, knows who brought the disaster upon the industry. The federal government did it. A year ago the government began an effort to keep butter prices up. The method followed was that which this and other governments had employed in attempting to keep up prices of cotton, coffee, rubber, and numerous other commodities, buying the "surplus supplies" as they came on the market, in the expectation of disposing of the acquired stock later. The government sponsored agency bought 114 million pounds in 1938, almost a pound of butter for every inhabitant. At times it bought all the butter all the sellers offered on a leading market.

So long as the government continued the operation it sustained the price of cash butter. At a slight concession in price the butter would have been consumed. As it was, persons who had to exercise every economy in a depression were forced to buy butter substitutes. While the government was piling up in cold storage warehouses the millions of pounds of butter it was buying the sale of butter substitutes soared.

No agency could carry on indefinitly an operation such as that which the government tried in butter. When the time came to face the fact, the price was bound to drop below what the price would otherwise have been. All the stored butter which might have been consumed now is competing with the current product. Butter in the government's hoard is displacing new butter whether the government sells its supplies or issues it to those on relief.

On April 1 creamery butter in cold storage amounted to 78 million pounds, five and a half times as much as a year ago and two and a half times the previous high record for the season. Ninety-two per cent of the accumulation of butter in storage is owned by the government. The problem is to work off the excess stock, which will continue to depress the price until it is consumed. Despite this fact a group of dairy officials met in Chicago on Friday to organize a drive to get the government to stabilize the price by buying more butter and adding to the record breaking surplus.

Holding up the price of anything reduces the amount of it which will be consumed and increases the amount of it which will be produced. When the desperate need of the dairy industry is for an increase in the consumption of butter and some curtailment of the output, the proposal is being seriously urged which will inevitably reduce consumption and increase production.

It is impossible to peg prices in anything but a complete dictatorship. The British government tried to boom the price of rubber some years ago and was able to run it up to $1.21, but in the subsequent crash it fell below 3 cents a pound. The United States government during the Roosevelt administration has tried by various devices to peg the price of cotton with the result that it has accumulated a supply which for years to come will restrict profitable operations for the planters.

The collapse of butter prices is another in the series of catastrophes which farmers have had to suffer as a result of the efforts of misguided governmental officials. Dairying was late in receiving the attention of the government. Dairy herds were yielding a good profit long after the farm board began to operate in the wheat and cotton markets, and the price of the one fell from $1.25 to below 50 cents and of the other from 19 cents to 5 cents. Dairying was prosperous under AAA, when the controls were extended to other products, but not to milk. This was not happenstance. The United States bureau of agricultural economics made a study of the results from controled and uncontroled commodities in 1934. It found that in the first full year of government supervision of farming the products under government control added 10 million dollars to the aggregate of farm incomes, and the products which were not controled, among them dairy products, added 568 million dollars to farm income.

When the government has attempted to rig the market for a farm product it has not solved the old problem, but has created a new one. To keep the price up the government would have to buy all that was produced. That of itself stimulates production and discourages consumption. A small absorbable surplus then becomes a surplus which cannot be absorbed readily, and which drives the prices to new levels. Have we not already had enough tragic experience to learn this lesson? Or must the market for every commodity be destroyed before the New Deal's ruinous attempts at control are abandoned?

TOWARD WAR.

Americans of short memory will approve Mr. Roosevelt's notes to Herr Hitler and the Duce. To the unsophisticated, the request for a pledge of a ten year holiday from aggression will seem to be exactly the way to prevent a war threatened by aggression. Anyway, these innocents believe, no harm can come of Mr. Roosevelt's diplomacy.

That was what the innocents of 1916 thought when Mr. Wilson was writing his notes. Mr. Wilson had at least preserved the appearance of friendship to both sides. Mr. Roosevelt hasn't done that. He has missed no occasion publicly to denounce Germany and Italy. Months ago he demanded that they be quarantined. Meanwhile he has made it perfectly clear what he meant when he used the word "quarantine." Only a few days ago he defined it without qualification as "war." His letter to Herr Hitler and Signor Mussolini speaks of America's position of detachment, but in reality Mr. Roosevelt long ago foreclosed his right to speak as a neutral. He can speak to them only as an enemy. His letter, if it means anything, means that if Hitler and Mussolini continue to expand their countries by armed force or the threat of it, and if, in consequence, England and France go to war against the axis powers, Mr. Roosevelt will do all he can to bring America into the war.

It is possible that this threat will succeed of its purpose. Mr. Wilson played the same kind of game and wrote better notes. They cost us 50,000 American lives and 20 billion dollars of debt; instead of saving the world for democracy we laid the foundation for the most ruthless absolutisms which Europe has known in 500 years and for the world-wide economic depression from which we suffer today. Mr. Roosevelt may have better luck with his correspondence but the risk is appalling.

Possibly Mr. Roosevelt, a member of the Wilson administration, fancies he has inherited the messianic mission. But Mr. Roosevelt has additional reasons for looking with favor upon participation in war. His dictatorial ambitions have been thwarted in part, but all the dictatorial power that has been withheld from him would be his if we go to war. His speech at Mount Vernon on Friday suggests all too plainly that he wants a third term. He can't have it in ordinary circumstances, as he well knows, but if a war is declared his chances will improve enormously.

The ordinary American, thinking of war, thinks of what it would cost—of the men who would be killed, of the families disrupted, of the emotional debauch and the eventual disillusionment. Mr. Roosevelt may think of war in other terms: to him it can mean the achievement of otherwise unattainable goals in self-aggrandizement and self-gratification. If his appeal to Hitler and Mussolini is rejected and if our country in consequence is projected into war he may not be inconsolable.

ANOTHER ST. CHARLES ATROCITY.

The brutalities of young criminals from the St. Charles school reached a new high in the attack by Vivian Denton on the aged wife of a farmer to whom he had been paroled for so-called rehabilitation. Denton was sent to the school a year ago from Kankakee county, a delinquent and a thief. He was an unruly inmate and escaped only a few months ago. Only a twisted mentality, it seems, would have regarded him as a proper subject for the parole arranged for him. He had been at the farm of Chris Christiansen only a few hours when he attacked Christiansen's 77 year old wife with a hatchet, inflicting terrible injuries. He stole a truck from the farmyard and escaped. Yesterday he was captured and confessed.

This latest atrocity, following as it does a long series of crimes by escaped inmates, should, and no doubt will, move to drastic action the legislative committee which has been investigating the home. Its investigation should not stop at the home itself. It should be extended to the persons responsible for sending these young criminals to an unwalled institution which, as demonstrated almost daily, offers no barriers to escape.

A large measure of this responsibility rests on the Juvenile court of Cook county, which commits more than half of the school's inmates. This institution appears to be completely dominated by social workers who have shut their eyes to the real character of criminals they are protecting and who have bamboozled the judge assigned to the court.

Denton was 17 years old. That is not too tender an age to meet death in battle, but the social workers continue their blind insistence that it is too tender an age to deserve adequate punishment for crime.

The legislative committee should go into the Juvenile court and give it a thorough airing. The committee will not find this an easy task. The social worker clique has turned proceedings there into a star chamber. In the name of youth and innocence the workers have erected a screen behind which they carry on their socially pernicious activities. The legislators, if they attempt to penetrate that screen, may expect a torrent of abuse from persons with a vested interest in the present vicious system.

That should not deter them. The Juvenile court needs a housecleaning, and the housecleaning should not be intrusted to any commission packed with or influenced by other social workers. The misdeeds of their associates in the home have disqualified all members of the cult as prejudiced parties.

THEN THE SCENERY.

[Register, New Haven.]

A candidate for the Vermont legislature attracted more than ordinary notice last fall because he campaigned on the sole issue of anti-billboard legislation. He was elected, and now the bill which he sponsored has been passed and signed by the governor.

That is faster work than like minded champions of the landscape have been able to do in many other states. Numerous issues of great public concern seem to have crowded out efforts to eliminate or at least do mostly away with the landscape-damaging billboards. The time will come, though, we hope, when the states will get their financial affairs in such reasonable shape as to allow more attention to matters of preserving the scenery.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

FOUR STREETS IN ONE.

Agatite street, with whose name the Line's contributors have been playing badminton for several weeks, is still a mystery to Chicago. People who have set forth to find it have been lost in the wilderness of the north and northwest sides for hours, and have been rescued, in a state of exhaustion, by the St. Bernard dog service maintained by this column. Hence the following explanation:

It is really four streets, which have been called one by street naming reformers because they follow the same east-west line immediately north of Montrose avenue. All of these pieces are short. They may be found in these districts: "Uptown," Ravenswood, Albany Park, and Portage Park. The two middle sections are only one block long. Agatite of Portage Park is the longest, with six blocks.

To differentiate them, one might use this system of names, starting with the former Galt avenue in the "Uptown" district: Agatite, Stalactite, Stalagmite, and Theodolite streets. Dr. White's observatory, and also the residence of Contributor Horace Octavius Quintillian, are on Theodolite street.

Fairies Are Tall in Ireland.

The late George Russell, who signed himself Æ, Irish writer, painter, journalist, and organizer of agricultural societies, was a mystic and a firm believer in supernatural creatures, such as fairies, elves, and leprechauns. He knew that they existed because he had seen them.

"I have only seen him angry on one occasion," writes Walter Starkey in the Quarterly Review, "and that was when some lady from America insisted that fairies were small beings. He stood up in a rage, raising his arms, and said, 'No! They are great white beings!'"

AFTERMATH TO BOAT RIDE.

What if we met but a second?
What if we're parted fore'er?
These we have known—the gray dawning,
The sea gulls on wing, and the rare
Orange look of a moon over water,
The tropic wind tangling our hair.
Only by these is time reckoned—
Only by these shall we swear!

My darling, tho' miles keep us parted,
Tho' water and land lie between,
We shall remember the star glow,
The fog horns, the bells, and the lean
Of the masts as the waves hit her port side—
All the glorious sights we have seen!
Since we said good-by broken-hearted,
What more can anything mean?

These we have known; we shall never Forget these small things, you and I—
The whistling wind in the rigging,
The tiny moon hung up to dry,
The salt spray wetting the boat rail,
The Southern Cross slanting the sky.
They shall unite us forever—
These memories never can die!

The Love Song of the Frogs.

Well, I see the spring poets are at it again. Now I'll tell you, Mr. Collins, if there is one thing that can really git under your hide after a winter of snow and ice it's the love song of the frogs in springtime. You never hear this song unless the air is real balmylike and kind of windyish from the south. Then the froggies come out and sing to their lady friends, and that sounds real purty and makes you feel good.

I've seen 'em up real close. Watched 'em sittin' in a bog or somethin', mebbe an inch or so out of the water. They got some kind of a dingus in their throats which they push up and down and git that warblin' sound. They start out kind of slowlike, then speed up faster and faster until they're a-goin' like sixty and then run out of breath. Then they have to start all over again.

Purty soon a lady frog comes a-ploppin' along and sits down next to the feller and makes eyes. Then he hops into the water and they go for, I suppose, an ice cream sody or maybe a movie. Just like a couple of high school kids. Sometimes I've heard as many as a thousand frogs goin' to it down on the marsh, and you ain't never heard no simphony yet that could beat the music them little fellers dished out when they got goin' good.

I can remember when my daddy would take my hand and we'd go down after the cows about sundown. On the way back he'd stop every once in a while and lissen to them frogs and then walk on shakin' his head. I'd look up at him and he'd see that I noticed his eyes were kind of choked up and he'd smile and squeeze my hand.

YOUNG MEN WHO SANG.

Whenever I behold a perfect tree,
Magnificent in shaping and in size,
With just a twinge of pain I realize
That gifted Kilmer, had Fate chanced to see Fit to have spared him, even now would be
But forty-five years old; that John McCrea
Has slept 'neath Flanders' poppies many a day
While Nature cried for poets such as he;
That Rupert Brooke, entombed in far off Greece
Finds still some corner of a foreign field
That is forever England; that there's peace
Where Seeger keeps his rendezvous with Death.
What are the benefits that war can yield
When lives like theirs were wasted by its breath?

SPRING CLEANING: OUR YEARLY PURGE.

ONE of the most important rules of hygiene is cleanliness, and the best way to maintain this state is by the use of large doses of soap and water. An heroic statue to the inventor of soap should be erected in every land. A few bars of this dirt chaser, plenty of elbow grease, and the urge to do not only will brighten the quarters attacked but will bestow a marked feeling of achievement. In fact, "cleaning up" may be listed among the "creative arts."

Dirt and health do not make congenial companions. That "Cleanliness is next to godliness" is an axiom that should be taken to heart. Dirty homes, neighborhoods, and towns take their toll—not only in disease but in wastage of human effort. Not all maladies, of course, are caused by filth, but a sufficiently large percentage is related to carelessness to make it a significant factor.

It is not too much to say that the reduction in the number of cases of tuberculosis has been brought about by letting the sun shine into dark places. In days gone by, when patients were cared for in the home, the sputum was not carefully collected and burned. In consequence it was not unusual for other members of the family—children especially—to succumb to this affliction. There can be no doubt that typhus, for example, has been wiped out because of better sanitation. Not many decades ago summer diarrhea in infants was accepted as inevitable. We know now that proper refrigeration of food and the assurance of its wholesomeness by keeping away flies and rodents—together with sterilization of the utensils used in preparing it—will eliminate this hazard.

Spring—which may really be considered the beginning of the "new year"—is a singularly appropriate time for making things shipshape. The long lethargy of winter is over, as is human hibernation near hot radiators, with the resultant lack of desire to "go places." The heating apparatus—which has had all fall and winter in which to make ceilings and walls grimy—is now given a vacation; the windows may be left open with comfort; while heavy rugs and draperies are replaced by lighter weight, washable materials. The rooms present a sunnier and more cheerful aspect. Although the scouring orgy is disturbing while it lasts the satisfaction felt on its completion is worth the effort.

But the household is not the only point of attack. Streets, alleys, and roadways are washed by nature's assistants—April showers. In addition, home owners do their part by disposing of débris around buildings and perhaps painting and rehabilitating generally. They go over the screens carefully before they are replaced and if repairs are needed they are taken care of. Thus flies and mosquitoes are unable to find easy access to board and lodging. Rats likewise are excluded by covering holes and by storing edibles in such a manner that these scavengers cannot reach them. Remember the premises are no sprucer than the dirtiest part. A foul alley or a littered basement may constitute a health menace.

Most parents realize their responsibility to their offspring—as well as to society—in the matter of inculcating the ideals of good hygiene. From infancy on the words most frequently uttered by the mother are "Take that out of your mouth." Eventually the child recognizes not only that the habit is unattractive but that the germs present on the chewed article may be harmful. Much missionary work must be performed in convincing the youngster of the necessity for brushing the teeth and removing "mourning" from beneath fingernails—thoroughly, not casually. A lad may even be made to learn [though perhaps not to enjoy] to wash his neck and behind his ears. While we do not want our boys and girls to become unduly disease-conscious, we do want them to understand the value of these procedures.

Schools, too, may stress the desirability of cleanliness in relation to public welfare. Health departments and civic organizations are more than willing to cooperate in any plan to improve living conditions on a large scale. Adequate garbage disposal—as an illustration—will decrease rat breeding.

While cleanup weeks provide us with an incentive, we should acquire the year round scrubbing habit.

CLICK IS O. K.

V. U. writes: Whenever I take a deep breath I feel a sort of click from the trunk of my body. Could this be a cold in my system? What can I do about it?

REPLY.

Keep clicking along. The sensation has no relation to a cold. It arises, in all probability, from pressure due to your extra inhalation. Trouble would be signalized by pain.

IF THEY HELP, YES.

T. R. writes: Is it necessary to wear glasses for the rest of one's life after a successful operation on a crossed eye? There is some vision in the affected eye.

REPLY.

If there is some vision in this eye, and if this can be increased by means of lenses, then you should wear them regularly.

ACIDOPHILUS MILK.

F. L. writes: 1. What is acidophilus milk? 2. What conditions is it used for?

REPLY.

1. Milk fortified with a special strain of the lactic acid bacillus. The organism feeds upon the lactose [milk sugar], changing it to lactic acid.
2. Intestinal infections.

SINUSES AND HEADACHES.

P. R. writes: Can a morning headache be blamed on a sinus infection? As the day wears on it disappears.

REPLY.

Yes. The upright position when one is out of bed assists drainage, hence clearing of the congestion.

THEY WON'T FIGHT.

H. L. L. writes: Is it true that milk in any form should never be included in a meal that contains fish?

REPLY.

No. Creamed fish, which presupposes the use of milk, butter, and flour, is a favorite with many. There is no feud between milk and fish.

IT'S A TUMOR.

H. G. writes: What causes a papilloma in the bladder?

REPLY.

This is a tumor. The exact cause for its appearance is not known. In skilled hands removal is not dangerous. Fulguration [electric spark] will cause it to melt away.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY W. A. O'CARROLL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia.—Prospects of a boom in Canberra real estate, as a result of the coming of the duke and duchess of Kent and their entourage, are waning.

At least two attractive properties on the outskirts have been on the market for some time. Both would make ideal locations for a country seat for a hunting, shooting, and fishing squire with ideas of mixing in government house circles. These will include a small army of nobility around the central figures of the duke and duchess. One peer at least will be included in the duke's staff, and several titled personages will bring their families from England. There will, therefore, always be a glittering social nucleus in the capital to attract aspiring social lights.

Therefore, in the opinion of those who expected a social rush tonnage for country seats at Canberra, there should be a demand for handy perches from which to survey or to join in the royal scene. But there isn't. In the circumstances, there is keen disappointment over the apparent lack of interest in Canberra as the prospective new social center of the commonwealth. It is a sad blow, both to social prestige and to business.

Those who claim to be in possession of inside information, however, do not expect that two lively spirits such as advance information has designated the duke and duchess will be prepared to bury themselves socially in the bush capital. The cosmopolitan Sydney and the more sedate, yet socially glittering, Melbourne are prepared to see more of the Kents than will a capital city cut off from everything but an odor of official sanctity. In short, no boom has started in Canberra because royalty won't waste much time there. A story was told here at the time the duke of Gloucester was substituted for the duke of Kent as the king's representative at the Melbourne centenary and it might lend color to the suggestion that the Kents will seek the lights of the big cities. Buckingham palace had suggested Gloucester in the first place, but the Melbourne centenary committee pressed for Kent as being more after the heart of the prince of Wales and likely to appeal more spontaneously to Australians. Candidly, the more sparkling personality was diplomatically suggested. The glad news that it would be Kent, not Gloucester, was regarded as a fine victory, but the Melbournians did not count on the subtleties of Downing street.

After Kent had undertaken a by no means strenuous tour of South Africa, Gloucester was substituted on the plea that his brother must have time to recuperate. The behind scenes story at the time was that Buckingham palace felt that Albert would fit into the schedule [including the time table] of a ceremonious centenary better than the effervescent, easy going George. As it turned out, the duke of Gloucester was never a minute late for any of his numerous and exacting appointments. He ran true to form in this respect but lacked the appeal of personality. What the Australian people expect of the Kents is that they will sparkle.

"AND/OR."

Chicago, April 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A and B are friends. A deposits $1,000 in a savings account in the names of A and/or B, so in case of the death of A, B would have funds with which to pay funeral expenses.

2. B gave A a receipt reading as follows: [3] "I received from B bank book No. .... issued in the names of A and B. A deposited the sum of $1,000 in this book March 23, 1935, to be withdrawn by B in the event of the death of A and used to defray her funeral expenses. This book is in B's safety deposit box No. .... in the ..... Safe Deposit company vault." B died last month.

4. I went to the attorney general's office and explained the matter in detail, showing them the document quoted above, but they insist that because there were two names on the account "A or B" that one-half, or $500, would be subject to taxation. I argued that because A deposited the whole $1,000 and for an express purpose that A could not be subjected to a tax when B died, as B had no interest in the account other than to see that A's funeral expenses were paid. Will you please give me your opinion on this? F. G.

1. This "and/or" expression has been much criticized by the courts and your case is a good illustration of its ambiguity. The expression commonly involves a choice between the two conjunctions, but does not make clear who is to make the choice or when. In such an example as "cream and/or sugar" it is clear that the person to drink the coffee is to make the choice, but no such interpretation would make sense in your case. Presumably what is meant is "and" until one dies and then "or," but this is not adequately stated.

2. These letters are confusing. We will assume that you are A, since B has died.

3. This first person pronoun offhand seems to conflict with the foregoing assumption. But if you have quoted exactly, then we will assume that the "I" referred to is B.

4. In general, the right way to make a gift effective on death is by a will. You have adopted a device which involves unnecessary legal difficulties and complications. If a private arrangement which could be disclosed or not as might be convenient were permitted to defeat the tax it should open a wide door for tax evasion. If you wish to contest the inheritance tax decision it will be necessary for you to employ an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

REMOVAL AFTER BURIAL.

Chicago, April 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My brother died some time ago and our family buried him on our lot, as my sister-in-law had no place to bury him. Can my sister-in-law have his body removed from our lot in case she buys a lot of her own, or can we keep him permanently? The officials of the cemetery say she cannot take him off our lot. C. D.

"There is a distinction between the rights existing prior to burial and those after burial, because after its interment the body is in the custody of the law, and a disturbance of its resting place and its removal is subject to the control and direction of a court of equity in any case properly before it. The right to have a dead body remain unmolested is not an absolute one; it must yield where it conflicts with the public good or where the demands of justice require such subordination." "PRICE OF A THIRD TERM."

Knox, Ind., April 14.—Orr's cartoon in THE TRIBUNE of today, "The Price of a Third Term," is the timeliest warning I have ever seen. For the preservation of peace in the world it is more important to stop Roosevelt than it is for England and France to stop Hitler and Mussolini. Our own President is rapidly becoming the greatest war monger in the world. Why? JOHN L. MOORMAN.

Chicago, April 14.—Allow me to add my strong protest to the many I am sure you will receive against the vicious and vile cartoon in today's TRIBUNE, "The Price of a Third Term."

To think that a so-called American newspaper should stoop so low in partisanship as to insinuate that the leader of our nation would gleefully sacrifice thousands of American lives to satisfy a personal ambition!

If censorship of the press ever comes in this country—we can thank THE TRIBUNE and the like for bringing it about. H. L. WARREN.

Chicago, April 14.—Being one of those who voted twice for the present chief executive, I hated to admit that THE TRIBUNE was right all the time, but it certainly looks that way now.

Please accept my appreciation for that splendid cartoon, "The Price of a Third Term," and THE TRIBUNE'S courageous stand against the President's strange fever to embroil this country in foreign madnesses where we have nothing to gain and everything to lose.

THOMAS J. BUFFINGTON.

Chicago, April 14.—This morning's cartoon, "The Price of a Third Term" is a gem, and all too true. The ghastly errors of the New Deal are bad enough. When you add to this the deliberate attempt of a small group to push us into another European dog fight for the purpose of covering their own mistakes and satisfying their own inhuman greed for a continuance in power, it is appalling. O. I. W.

WAR DRUMS IN VIRGINIA.

Norwood, Va., April 11.—Because a considerable number of us have substituted the idea of neutrality for the idea of a nation struggling for right, we are a nation in danger of losing the courage of our convictions, and the whole fabric of morale that goes therewith.

Closer to Hitler than they realize, in their blindness, are our isolationists. Just as Hitler belongs to the past, to the age when there was no international morality, even so do those who hold fast to the old idea of isolation belong to the days when airplanes were but a dream, and radio had not entered the mind of man. Neutral, we may succeed in being, during the first phase or two of this struggle. And our neutrality will be hailed with victorious joy by all Fascism. But soon enough the struggle will close in upon us who have been so sweetly neutral. And then, too late, we shall see our neutrality for what it is—namely, a way of giving aid and comfort to the enemy of human freedom.

BOLLING SOMERVILLE.

"A GOOD LICKING."

Chicago, April 12.—You never did better work than giving full publicity to the misrule at the St. Charles School for Boys. I visited this school one Sunday some years ago, and remember the "slick aleck" attitude—the flip answers made to ordinary questions asked of some of these boys.

I have been around most sections of Chicago and in the small Illinois towns—heard the talk of some of these tough, or would-be tough, kids—and feel that at times—and to some of them—a good licking would do more good than all the gentleness and coddling in the world. Mind you, this applies only to the real tough ones who are not amenable to anything else. I learned this at the school I went to. We gave the "school bully" a good licking and did he quiet down.

FREDERICK J. CHARLES.

FOR AN AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY.

Chicago, April 10.—Your paper is the only American newspaper. I know that you do not like Hitler nor his gangster satellites and neither do I, although I am more German than the semi-Bohemian Adolf. But not liking the Nazis madmen does not make me a British lackey. When I was naturalized an American I did not believe that I was becoming an English colonial. The foreign policy in Washington is the same as that of an English dominion, except that the latter is more independent. More power to your paper, which is American first, last and forever. C. HOFFMANN.

BALKAN PREDICTION.

Chicago, April 11.—Unless Jugo-Slavia and Rumania propose large territorial concessions to Bulgaria it could not be possible for her to join in any alliance against the Nazis. Bulgaria is likely to work in harmony with the Rome-Berlin axis for a number of good reasons, one being that she has no special regard for either the Serbs or Rumanians. A considerable slice of territory was snatched from Bulgaria in the second Balkan war and after the world war, 1914-'18. That she is waiting for just such an opportunity, as events now are shaping, to regain her land and people, is generally conceded and believed by students of central European and Balkan history. Since Italy now has a foothold across the Adriatic, Jugo-Slavia and Rumania are caught in a pincer. It would not be a surprise to see these two oversized states, manufactured by the rude dismemberment of others, reduced to their actual size as they were prior to the war.

MEDITATOR.

"BLESSED BRITAIN."

Chicago, April 11.—Your editorial, "The Tories of '76 Ride Again," in today's TRIBUNE is a shocking demonstration that THE TRIBUNE'S editorials are made to order from upstairs. Mr. Stimson did not do anything of what you are trying to dish out. He is a true American, and knows that he has to pick between two evils.

It is a tearful spectacle for a paper of your high standing to justify the acts of the aggressors of today against people whose civilizations flourished long before the German empire was built; and long before the Italian states pulled together to the rebirth of a nation.

Under this lashing of facts you dare compare the above acts of the aggressors to the blessed acts of Britain and France in past times, which God blessed acts were not only justified but of a great benefit to humanity? READER.

IN DEFENSE OF "BRATS."

Chicago, April 11.—It's just too bad about "Reader," who can't stand the "brats."

I have three young Americans in my family and open my basement to seventeen high school boys. These boys cannot play ball in the streets for the likes of you, the prairies are full of holes and rubbish and it costs $10 to secure a place in a public school playground, an amount they cannot raise.

We do not consider ourselves "ill bred" because our kids might run across your lawn to retrieve their ball. I don't believe our place is an eyesore to the neighborhood in spite of all the children using our premises for headquarters. We have put little fences where the children are most apt to misstep and they are very nice about being careful. Why don't you put up a fence and let the kids play?

A MOTHER AND FRIEND OF YOUTH.

JITTERBUGS.

Peoria, Ill., April 11.—With the constant barrage of emergencies Mr. Roosevelt has kept popping at us for the past few years, and now that Mr. Hitler, Mr. Mussolini and Mr. Chamberlain have added a few more emergencies to our daily dozen, is it any wonder we are becoming a nation of bigger and better jitterbugs? H. R. FAHNESTOCK.

WPA'S QUIZ FINDS ONLY 4% ON STATE WPA ARE CHEATS

Report Recalls Prediction of a Whitewash.

Charles E. Miner, state WPA administrator, has reported to Col. F. C. Harrington, national WPA administrator in Washington, that less than 4 per cent of all persons on rolls of the Works Progress administration in Illinois are cheaters thought to be undeserving of relief jobs. This was learned last night from a reliable WPA source close to Miner's office.

An inquiry into Illinois WPA rolls, part of a nation-wide investigation ordered by congress, was begun late in February and completed March 25. Harrington, in a confidential memorandum early last month, instructed state administrators not to discuss the investigation until he had reported to congress. Until this report is made, Miner said he could not discuss results of the Illinois survey.

Whitewash Hints Recalled.

The general result of the Illinois investigation, as learned last night, recalled predictions of some relief experts that it would whitewash the administration. One WPA official commented, "It wouldn't help the WPA's fight for funds in congress if the inquiry showed that the WPA had been harboring a great many people not needing help."

One high relief official estimated that a thorough investigation would result in a minimum of 30 per cent of those now on the rolls being dropped and might disclose that as many as half of the WPA workers are cheaters.

"One of the men in Miner's office admitted," he said, "that they didn't want to make it look as though there were too many on the rolls who didn't belong there as long as the WPA is trying to get money." This WPA official said they would be cutting their own throats if they told congress that a third of those on WPA rolls have no right to public aid.

Offers an Explanation.

"Harrington is all set to say to congress: 'Look what good boys we are.' That's why they didn't want to let the Illinois emergency relief commission really take the rolls apart."

Harrington indicated in Chicago early in February that the I. E. R. C. would be given the investigating job. Then the WPA decided to conduct its own inquiry, and it was rumored that the I. E. R. C.'s previous success in cleaning out the WPA rolls influenced this decision.

The I. E. R. C. investigated the WPA rolls two years ago when there were 154,000 WPA cases in Illinois. It found that about one out of every six WPA workers was a cheater. It took more than eight months for the job—compared with the month or more for the WPA-conducted inquiry—and spent slightly more than $1.60 per case investigated.

WPA Inquiry Cost Little.

When the WPA started its investigation and the WPA rolls had jumped to 225,000, it was disclosed that the WPA was spending only $1 per case on its inquiry. Relief experts said at the time that any investigation conducted in such a short period and with such a small expenditure per case could do little toward finding cheaters.

The I. E. R. C. has found that the cost of investigation per case runs from $2 to $4.50 if worthwhile results are to be expected.

FALL FROM FLAT OF DIVORCEE IS FATAL TO YOUTH

Robert Weisgerber, a dental student, died last night in Henrotin hospital of injuries suffered early yesterday when he plunged from a fourth floor apartment window in the Delaware Towers Apartment hotel, 25 East Delaware place.

He was visiting Miss Frances Hedlund, a divorcée. She was in another room, and he told her, "I'm going out for cigarets." She did not suspect anything unusual had happened until some one went to her room and notified her of the fatal fall.

Weisgerber was 25 years old and lived in the Lawson Y. M. C. A. He and Miss Hedlund had been to a nearby tavern with her two sisters and his roommate shortly before his fatal fall.

BY JUDITH CASS.

At a tea at home in Winnetka Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sherman announced the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor Buttolph, to Robert Knox Vincent, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. Vincent, Shelby, Mich.

Dr. and Mrs. Vincent were present at the announcement party. Young Mr. Vincent is in business in Chicago and makes his home with a group of bachelors in Astor street.

Miss Sherman, a member of the Junior league, attended the North Shore Country Day school and was graduated from Dana Hall and Connecticut college. She just has returned from a two months' holiday in Palm Springs, Cal., with Miss Jean Armstrong.

Mr. Vincent is a graduate of Andover, Harvard, and the Harvard school of business administration. The wedding will take place next fall.

Eleanor Calkins Engaged to Wed William C. Egan.

Mrs. Raymond Mott Calkins of Bannockburn, who is preparing for one wedding in May, will have a second one in the family next September when Miss Eleanor Jane Calkins is married to William C. Egan. The engagement of Miss Calkins to the son of Mrs. Roswell B. Swazey of Highland Park and of William Bradshaw Egan of Chicago is being made today.

Like her sister, Miss Kathleen Calkins, who will become the bride of John W. Sample on May 20, Miss Jane Calkins attended Miss Hall's school in Pittsfield, Mass., and the Finch school in New York. Mr. Egan prepared at the Choate school in Wallingford, Conn., and was graduated from Harvard in 1936. He is engaged in business in Chicago.

Hospital Benefit Group to Appear in Movie.

Twenty-four motion picture stars who will make the hit of their lives at an exclusive showing next Tuesday afternoon, April 25, at the Esquire theater are the members of the Rummage Shop committee of the Children's Memorial hospital. They are to appear in person and on the screen at what surely will be one of the gayest of the original parties this group gives every so often to increase the stock of the White Elephant shop at 27 East Ohio street.

Admission to the theater will be a "white elephant" for the shop, and the party will start promptly at 2:30 o'clock. No one will be late, either, for friends of Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Charles Foster, Mrs. Jacob Baur, and the other committee members would not risk missing the parade of stars. The film to be shown is "Stage Coach."

It is expected that at least $10,000 will be received from a benefit for the hospital planned for next fall. As announced by Arthur G. Cable of the men's board, the benefit will be a concert on the afternoon of Nov. 26 at the Auditorium theater by the New York Philharmonic orchestra, John Barbirolli conducting.

Arts Club Professional Exhibition Next Sunday.

In the Saturday mail: Invitations from the Arts club to the annual exhibition by professional members from 4:30 until 7:30 o'clock next Sunday afternoon, and to the Playwright's theater presentation of "My Garment Changed," by Helen Walton Stambaugh, at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night, April 27.

Invitations to the American Friends of China from Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Dempster to a tea at the Dempsters' next Monday afternoon to meet the members of the Chinese Cultural theater group. The group, which has appeared at International house, will give a performance for the benefit of China relief on April 26 in Orchestra hall.

The Civic Opera house will seem as gay tonight as during the opera season. Grace Moore is giving a concert for the benefit of the Chicago Nursery and Half Orphan asylum. Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy Jr., president of the board of managers of the asylum, and Mrs. William B. McIlvaine will give a joint dinner party for their box guests. Mrs. Charles Garfield King, one of the boxholders, has given her box to her son, Garfield King, whose engagement to Miss Kay Goodman was announced on Saturday.

Mrs. King's daughter, Mrs. John I. Shaw, is general chairman of the benefit. Mrs. Shaw and her husband's parents, the Arch W. Shaws, are others giving dinners before the concert.

Tea at Arts Club Today for Dr. William J. Hutchins.

Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins will be among those pouring at a tea Mrs. C. Warner Williams is giving at the Arts club at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon for Dr. Hutchins' father, Dr. William J. Hutchins, retiring president of Berea college. The younger Dr. Hutchins will not be at the party, for he has a speaking engagement in Washington.

Mrs. Williams and her husband, well known sculptor, both attended Berea. Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, president of the Arts club, and the wives of two of Berea's trustees, Mrs. Charles Ward Seabury and Mrs. Richard Bentley, also will pour.

Norwegian Royal Couple to Be at Banquet and Concert.

The tentative program that has been drawn up and submitted to the Norwegian crown prince and princess for their Chicago visit has not been entirely approved as yet, but two events that they will attend are a banquet on Friday, May 5, and a concert the night before. The concert will be given in the Auditorium theater by the Norwegian Royal University chorus, the members of which are crossing on the Oslofjord with the royal party and landing in New York next Tuesday.

The famous male chorus will take part in the official opening of the Norwegian exhibit at the New York World's Fair on May 1. Crown Prince Olav and Princess Martha will open the exhibit officially on that date. The banquet is to be given at the Palmer House.

A luncheon for Princess Martha will be given at the Drake on May 4, it was announced Saturday by Mrs. Sigurd Maseng, wife of the Norwegian consul and chairman of the luncheon committee. One hundred Norwegian American women's organizations in the city will be represented at the luncheon. All Chicago women are invited; reservations may be made through Miss Holly, Spaulding 1030.

Thumber's Thanks.

Last Thursday a Chicago lecture manager, S. E. Paulus, who often picks up hitch-hikers during his travels, gave a lift to a lad he picked up just outside Milwaukee. He drove him to Chicago and deposited him at the Morse "L" station. As the boy got out he handed his benefactor a card. It read:

Thank you.
Your kindness of allowing
HOWARD SHUMWAY to ride with you
has been greatly appreciated.
Bethel Academy, Arpin, Wis.

"L" Challenge.

A tall brown-eyed girl in a wide brimmed yellow straw hat was hanging to a strap on a southbound Jackson Park elevated a few mornings ago. A little old lady stood beside her, nearly falling every time the car stopped and started.

"Is there a gentleman in this car?" the young woman called out in a loud clear voice.

After some little wait one man stood up. The girl indicated his seat to the old lady who took it forthwith.

The sedan cruising in the loop advertising it was shot up by thugs, its sound device rendering How Was I to Know?

Paper Collection.

Some paper samples left Chicago recently to go to England to the paper collection of John Johnson, printer to Oxford university, who has the only known paper collection in the world. Mr. Johnson's theory is that paper articles are ephemeral and because no one saves them, knowledge of them will be lost to the world. So he began his collection, which now encompasses more than a million paper items, such as match packs, drinking cups, and cartons.

Good Morning!

Maurice Chevalier is back with us again. And—as Victor Larnois—gay as a lark, shrewd as a pawn broker, and hard hearted as the income tax collector.

His present vehicle is a French made comedy with English titles.

It is a moderately entertaining little affair which reveals that Chevalier is a little heavier, a little older, but still exuberant and ingratiating. He doesn't sing much and when he does his singing's not so hot, but his pantomime is delicious, and, on the screen, pantomime is important.

You meet Victor as a bum. BUT—a bum with ideas. Ideas that boost him steadily up the ladder of success. He rises in the world from the job of theater doorman to a position as a power behind a grand opera company. The latter status was the notion of his socially ambitious wife who, under his tutelage had graduated from the chorus and acquired a tenacious clutch on the outer fringe of society.

On his climb upward, when necessary, Victor has pushed aside and trampled. . . . He has been false to his greatest benefactor. . . . And always—with a smile.

We leave him with one—happy and prosperous.

So, you see, the story has no moral. . . .

Monsieur Chevalier is supported by an able cast.

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Hollywood, Cal., April 16.—Biggest social event of entire Hollywood year was the charity party tendered by Basil Rathbone last midnight in the hills of Bel-Air. Given in behalf of the Hollywood Actors' guild and priced at $10 a ticket, the party attracted every star and director of the Hollywood colony. The setting was a huge circus tent, divided into twin dancing floors so that almost every personage in the house had a ringside table. If you know the jealousies of Hollywood you will understand the magnitude of the Rathbone coup. Tokens for liquor added to the gross revenue. A series of booths in which poker could be played swelled the fund. It was the biggest event of the year and there were more glamor girls than you could shake a stick at, if that is the proper procedure.

CONDEMNED.

Jeff Hunter stood at the barred window and looked out at the dawning of the day which would probably be his last on earth. Back of the buildings on the east side of the plaza a faint blue was beginning to sift into the sky. Somewhere a cock crowed, and as if this had been a signal others gave answer.

The cheerful barnyard reveille brought a thin bitter smile to the lips of the prisoner. He was a hard man, weathered by life, and iron ran in his blood. Into work and into play he had plunged with zest. Now he was done with both. Sunshine and laughter, comradeship, the rustle of the wind in the pines, all the pleasant habitual activities of existence were at an end. Any dream of love that had lain dormant in his heart would die unfulfilled with him.

He wasted no time in self-pity. All his life he had fought for his own hand and had learned to take good luck and bad in his stride. If he had come to the end of the trail, that was that.

Day comes swiftly in Mexico. A ball of fire rose out of the hills and slanted its rays across the plaza till they reached the adobe wall against which he would very likely stand to face the firing line. The bells of the cathedral sounded a call to mass, and presently a trickle of women in black rebozas vanished through the great doors of the church. Peons with laden burros sauntered into the square and disappeared into the narrow streets beyond.

Jeff had not slept all night, nor would he sleep, since soon the men were coming to carry him away. When one can count his remaining span in hours he does not need rest.

A jailor brought him a tin plate of frijoles and tortillas de huevos, and with the food a jug of water. The Mexican, pockmarked and ugly,

"So, Senor Hunter, we meet again."

told him he did not like gringoes and was glad he would not have him long.

"How long?" the American asked him coolly, also in Spanish.

The guard did not know, but he was one of those wise men who never admit ignorance.

"Muy pronto," he answered. "As soon as Pancho has breakfasted and is ready for sport." He left the cell with much show of merriment and laughter.

Jeff had no desire to eat, but he did so with dogged determination. Whatever was in store for him he would stand up to it.

When he had finished he went back to the window. The day was getting hot. Squinting up he saw a sun like a copper kettle in the sky. It beat on the cathedral and made tesselated patterns of shine and shadow beneath the cottonwoods in the center of the square. Though it was too far to see them he knew that lizards were clinging to the adobe wall soaking up the warmth.

There was more activity on the plaza now. Children played under the trees and men lounged in the shade. Vendors of tamales, enchilades, cactus candy, cigarets, and ice cream cones called their wares. A woman was selling tickets for the national lottery. Stores on two sides of the quadrangle were displaying and selling meat, groceries, cheap clothes, and roughly made shoes. He could see housewives bargaining for their supplies. A group of little boys were engaged in some kind of a game in front of the wall. They were throwing the tops of pop bottles at a line drawn in the dirt.

Along Avenue San Miguel troops marched into sight and lined up in front of the cathedral. Some of them were barefoot, and none of the privates wore uniforms except such boots, trousers, and jackets as they had been able to loot from dead or captured government soldiers. More and more armed men appeared, so many that the prisoner watching through the barred window guessed the number at a thousand.

He knew what this meant. There was to be an execution. Perhaps in a few minutes guards would come for him. He had not been tried, but that was a formality Pancho Banderas could easily omit. The man was a ruffian, flung into power by one of the queer quirks of fate which made generals out of peons in times of revolution. Pancho had a brutal direct strength, a savage fury, and an explosive energy that made him a leader of ignorant men. He was moved only by the urge of his own turbulent will. Since he hated Hunter, with an urge that was passionate and deadly, no mercy would be shown the American. Jeff did not intend to ask for it. What use, since he knew that Banderas would find a savage and cruel joy in seeing him suffer?

The roots of the Mexican's hatred were grounded in the days when he had been a mucker for Hunter at the Nino Perdido mine. Pancho was a bad lot, insolent and insubordinate, a born trouble maker. When Jeff was sure the man was stirring up dissatisfaction among the others of his race he sent him packing. There was another reason, too. Quite openly Pancho was setting about the seduction of pretty Lena Bolio, the daughter of one of the crew bosses at the mine.

Twenty-four hours after he had been discharged Pancho had been caught stealing a fine rifle from the house of the mine superintendent. Both because he deserved it and to impress the fellow's followers Hunter had ordered Pancho flogged. It was a mistake. Banderas had left cursing wildly and threatening vengeance.

After the revolution started Pancho had raided the Nino Perdido and Hunter had escaped just in time. The American had thrown in with his friend, Colonel Alvarez. This was unwise, since troubles in Mexico were none of his concern. He justified himself on the ground that he was manager of a mine in which he and others had invested large sums. It was up to him to fight for his own. So he had joined the hurriedly planned expedition against Banderas.

The forces of Alvarez had been trapped and defeated. Among those captured were Jeff Hunter and the commander himself. Last night they had been brought to Los Portales and imprisoned.

Jeff turned from the window. The heavy door of his cell was creaking as it opened. A huge man stood at the entrance and showed a mouthful of strong white teeth in an evil grin. That he had been drinking heavily was plain. His little red eyes were shining with malignant triumph. The man wore riding breeches, puttees, and a gold trimmed sombrero. His lether jacket carried the stars of a general.

"So, Señor Hunter, we meet again," he jeered. His English was without a trace of accent, since he had been born and brought up in south Texas. "I am delighted to have you as a guest. O, very much! May I hope you have been treated well by my rascals?"

The prisoner looked at him steadily, salient jaw clamped tight. If any panic flooded his throat at sight of Banderas no sign of it showed in the cold, hard eyes of the poker face.

"I have no complaint," he said at last quietly.

"Bueno! And your health—it is good, I hope?"

The American ignored the persiflage. He knew that the other man was playing a part. He had come to enjoy the sight of his enemy trapped and in his power.

"Have you come to tell me it is time for me to stand against the wall?" Hunter asked evenly.

"No, no!" The big man lifted a great brown hand in mock protest against such an outrage. "This entertainment is for your friend Colonel Alvarez. I have been up all night questioning the dog and now he dies. As you see, I have reserved a front seat for you at the show, a little private box of your own. But for you, señor, nothing like this. Not at all."

The condemned man was not deluded by this promise. He could see pinpoints of malice dancing in the pig's eyes. If he was not to be shot publicly it was because worse was in store for him. He waited in silence.

"Would not that big bully, Uncle Sam, ask unpleasant questions if we stood you beside Alvarez? But yes. So I think it must be the ley de fuega. In the darkness tonight you, with others, will oblige me by trying to escape, and in the confusion you will be shot. A most unhappy accident. Many regrets. I shall be very, very sorry."

"Have you picked the hour, Banderas?" the prisoner asked quietly.

"General Banderas, con su permiso," the Mexican corrected.

Hunter shrugged, drawling an answer insultingly. "Yesterday a mucker—today a general—tomorrow a stone wall and firing squad."

WEDDING PLANS.

Lee let the typewritten pages fall.

"It was you who began to suspect her! O, Peter—what put it into your head?"

"It was that business about the key. She was listening whilst Ross went for old Rush about his papers being disturbed, and she could tell the inspector all about the row. But she didn't say a word about one of the keys of the flat having been pinched. Well, when Rush told me about his row with Ross he laid great stress on this missing key, and said he'd reminded Ross about it then. He said a thing which stuck in my mind. He said, 'Find the one that pinched that key and you'll find the one that shot Mr. Ross.'

"When I saw old Lamb at Scotland Yard I asked him whether he'd heard anything about this missing key, and he said he hadn't. He read me the bit out of Mrs. Green's statement, and she never mentioned it. I began to wonder why. Rush had been flinging it up at Ross, and it was such an obvious thing to take hold of—I didn't see how she could have missed it. But she never said a single word about that key. When I came to wonder why, I could only find one answer. It was because she had taken it herself."

"How horrible!" said Lee with a shudder in her voice.

"She very nearly brought it off," said Peter—"very, very nearly. And it might have been you, or me, or Bobby, or Lucinda, or Mavis, or Rush, or even the blameless Bingham who had to face the music. It seems to me they could have made out a pretty good case against any one of us. In fact, my dear, the only thing that saved us was the undoubted fact that we couldn't all have done it. But Bobby certainly did his best to get the rope round his neck. He and Mavis are a pair."

"O," said Lee, "Lucy has heard from Mavis."

"Lucy has what?"

"Heard from Mavis in a letter, quite calm, placid and comfortable."

"Where is she?"

"In Cornwall. She's quite casual about it, and she doesn't seem to have any idea that there's a warant out for her arrest. She went out on the Friday morning——"

"As per Aunt Gladys—to get a breath of air?"

"Several breaths. And she met Joyce Lennox—you know, the girl with all that money and a Bentley—so Mavis told her what a fuss there had been about Ross, and how frightful Aunt Gladys and Uncle Ernest were, and what a bore the inquest was. And Joyce said, 'Well, why go to it? Why not hop in and come along down to Cornwall with me?'—just like that. So she did. And neither of them seem to have thought it mattered in the least."

"Well, I hope they give her six months for contempt of court or whatever it is."

Lee got up, wandered to the fireplace, looked back over her shoulder.

"I used to think—I very nearly thought—you liked her——"

"Me? My good girl!"

"She would have liked you to."

"Ross and Bobby not enough for her?"

Lee shook her head very slightly, was caught by the shoulders, and twisted round.

"Why are we talking about Mavis?" said Peter violently. "I haven't seen you for twenty-four hours, and first we talk about murders, and then we talk about Mavis. I want to talk about me."

Lee looked up at him, and felt her color rise.

"Only you?"

"Me first. Afterwards, if you are very good, we may devote a few moments to you. We begin with me because I shall burst if I can't get some one to listen to all the things that are positively seething in me about my wedding, my honeymoon——"

"Peter!"

"I shall get a license. I've always liked the sound of a license—a sort of off-the-deep-end flavor. I don't know where you get one, but old Prothero will know. I must ring him up. A license, and a wedding ring—gold or platinum? Take your time, because you'll have to wear it all the rest of your life. Honeymoon—I say, that's an atrocious word if you like—vulgarity incarnate! Cut it out! We'll go on a wedding journey instead, like the early Victorians. You can have a poke bonnet, and if you insist I'll wear a stock. 'The bridegroom, Mr. Peter Renshaw, looked excessively handsome in a black satin stock. The bride——'"

"Peter, are you mad?"

Peter said, "Yes, darling," and swung her off her feet.

From the doorway Lucy Craddock viewed the scene with indulgence.

"O, my dear boy!" she breathed.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

From the notebook:

A masseuse who is something of a wonder at taking the cricks out of tired necks advises the business women among her clients to change the positions of their typewriters occasionally. For example, women who have formed the habit of having the typewriter to the left must turn the head almost constantly to the right to look at their notes on the desk.

Typists can develop habits of posture—usually bad ones—by following the same typing routine day after day. The masseuse advises changing the position of the typewriter frequently so that the tension or strain on shoulder and neck muscles is shared. It's a good tip, we think—and we know that it helped one woman who had a chronic shoulder ache.

After watching a makeup expert perform several miracles in the space of a day, making feminine faces interesting and attractive, we share his enthusiasm for the lip rouge brush. Get one; practice with it—and eventually you'll be able to give yourself a clean cut, suave lipline that will make a tremendous difference in your appearance.

Drab Hair Improved by Careful Use of Well Chosen Makeup

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

There's a new suggestion added to hair presentation now—namely, hair makeup. As in other departments of beauty, some women need no hair makeup. They have alive, brilliant toned locks that need no artificial touch. Let beautiful enough alone, is our motto.

There are heads of hair that could use a little makeup well. There is hair frankly tired looking, mousey, or unbecomingly graying.

Hair coloring treatments have gone a long way in the past few years. Just offhand, we think of one recent development — combination of shampoo, conditioner and coloring. We like these hair makeup products that wash out with each shampoo, because if you don't like the result you can change immediately. And we have seen some mousey looking heads of hair develop a more vitalized personality through the use of a well-selected, well-applied bit of harmless coloring.

Marian Anderson Row Reopened as D. A. R. Delegates Gather

Washington, D. C., April 16.—(AP)—The Marian Anderson controversy broke out anew today as several thousand members of the Daughters of the American Revolution arrived in the capital for their 48th continental congress.

Charles H. Houston, chairman of a self styled citizens' committee which protested against the D. A. R.'s recent refusal to make its auditorium here available for a concert by the famous Negro singer, said the committee had asked the D. A. R. to open Constitution hall to Negro artists in the future.

Houston said no reply had been received and that the committee would send another letter to the D. A. R. tomorrow asking that a delegation be received Wednesday or Thursday to discuss the three points of the first letter.

U. S. Premiere of Comic Opera Given at U. of C.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

In the Reynolds club theater last night the music department of the University of Chicago gave the first recorded American performance of "Pimpinone," a farcical three act opera by Georg Philipp Telemann.

This 213 year old piece has nothing of the depth of the eighteenth century's more familiar musical products. This is the eighteenth century with its hair down and full of animal spirits and rough humor. The effect is curious where the formal and, to us, rather quaint and delicate sounding music is used to accompany such lusty doggerel as that of the "Crazy Hellcat" song.

The story of the ambitious chambermaid who succeeded in marrying the crusty bachelor was enacted by Joy Fairman and Roy Schuessler. In addition to expert musicianship both singers have a gift for caricature and for custard comedy. Their antics pulled real laughs out of the audience.

Siegmund Levarie conducted from the spinet. Accompaniments were provided by this instrument and by a string quartet drawn from the University of Chicago symphony orchestra. "Pimpinone" will be repeated tomorrow and Sunday evenings.

The recital of Joseph Golan, 8 year old violinist, opened in most theatrical fashion yesterday. The Goodman theater was plunged in darkness, the curtains slowly parted, and a spotlight picked out the tiny boy standing ready beside the piano. He applied himself immediately to "Yisker," a Hebrew prayer.

Both the prayer and the Veracini Sonata which followed it were played with an amazing regard for beauty of tone. Phrasing was clean and perfectly intelligible. In the last movement of the sonata there was a vigor and command which no one would believe an 8 year old child capable of achieving.

A feature of the recital was a first performance of George Perlman's "Indian Summer." It is dedicated to John T. McCutcheon and named for his famous cartoon.

In the course of yesterday's all-French program by the Illinois Symphony orchestra Israel Baker played the solo part of the B-minor violin concerto of Saint-Saëns. Izler Solomon conducted.

Mr. Baker's performance had style, ease, and showmanship. He has developed a habit of leaning too hard on his bow much of the time, and his tone, in consequence, often threatens to get over onto the shrill side without ever actually arriving there.

In Kimball hall yesterday the Fine Art opera embarked on one of the most ambitious projects in the history of nonprofessional opera. This project is nothing more nor less than a performance in costume and with stage action of the four music dramas of Wagner's "Ring of the Nibelungs." Yesterday the piece was "Das Rheingold." The others will follow in order on April 30, May 14, and May 28. Zerline Muhlman Metzger is directing the cycle and condensing the orchestral parts on the piano.

Soprano Shows Rare Taste in Choosing Songs

BY CECIL SMITH.

Just three weeks after her appearance as soloist with the Civic orchestra in Orchestra hall, Alice Tully, American soprano, returned to the same hall to give a song recital. As was the case in her recitals last year and the year before, Miss Tully elected to present a list of songs of surpassing musical interest and worth.

She began the afternoon with a group of Hugo Wolf lieder, beginning with the majestic "Morgenstimmung" and continuing through four exquisite and largely unfamiliar settings of Goethe and Mörike lyrics. Her singing of these masterpieces was deeply penetrating and highly affecting. Her German diction was extremely aristocratic and her intuitive response to the varying moods of the texts was unfailingly discriminating and communicative. Not many recitalists in recent seasons have come so close to the inner glow of Wolf's introspective gift of beauty.

In a miraculously lovely group of six songs by Gabriel Fauré, greatest of all French lyric composers, the recitalist again revealed the same choice grasp of the language and the same quickening musical insight. I know of no singer in whom it is easier to overlook a certain amount of recalcitrant vocalism than in Miss Tully. By virtue of her resourceful program planning and her mature mastery of her material, she will always be a welcome visitor here.

In the latter portion of the program, which I had to miss, were included three songs by Erik Satie, a cycle of three songs involving plays on words by Pierre Octave Ferroud [sung here for the first time], a song by Paul Nordoff and three folk songs.

I reached Thorne hall just in time to hear Paula Zwane's rich soprano voice in the concluding measures of the "Fac ut portem" solo of Rossini's "Stabat Mater." The Central Y. M. C. A. college symphony orchestra and chorus, under Anton Bek, presented the work, with Henrietta Chase, soprano; Julian Miller, tenor, and Reid Hillyard, baritone, as the other soloists. Miss Chase's brilliant, fresh dramatic soprano voice gave great impact to the celebrated "Inflammatus," with thrilling high C's of the kind every opera house needs but seldom gets.

Charming for Home Hours

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

You'll be as charming as you are an efficient housewife if you wear this dress. The V neckline is given a collar that is rather wider than usual, and it is trimmed with ruffling or plaiting to match that used on the short cap sleeves, which are cut in one with the shoulders.

Extending only from the sides is a self-fabric sash, and the skirt is flared widely for both comfort and smartness. Pockets to match the collar are used on the skirt, and they are large enough to be accommodating.

Washable silks, cottons, and linens are the obvious fabric choices for this pattern, and prints are quite in order.

If you select a plain color, you might like to brighten it with embroidery on the collar. We suggest pattern No. E-11176, available for 10 cents extra, as being particularly attractive.

Style No. 2640 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with 3 yards of ruffling.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

When young beets with tender tops are available in your market you're lucky. For beet tops, among the finest flavored greens, are rich in calcium and phosphorus, contain more iron than spinach, and provide a goodly supply of vitamins.

Very young beets and greens may be cooked together, but usually they are separated to serve as vegetable for two different meals. The greens are cooked quickly in a small amount of salted boiling water. We used to favor cooking all greens without a cover, but recent experiments seem to indicate that if the greens aren't overcooked a cover will not cause any loss of color, and it does shorten the cooking time. As soon as the red stalks are tender the beet greens should be drained, chopped or not, as you prefer, and seasoned with salt, pepper, and butter.

Beets themselves are always cooked with a cover. They may be steamed or cooked in a pressure cooker to reduce cooking time. Or they may be peeled and sliced before cooking. This is a distinct departure from old practice, as it is well known that beets lose color in the cooking water if they are cut. The remedy for this is to use only a small amount of cooking water, letting most of it evaporate toward the end of the cooking period, serving the rest with the beets. The cooked-out color will be reabsorbed by the beets, and they'll be as red as you want them.

Beets may be baked like potatoes, in their skins. Medium sized beets will require an hour in a 325 degree oven, after which their skins may be pulled off, and they may be sliced and seasoned for serving. Or bake them in a covered casserole, after they have been peeled and sliced, and seasoned with salt, pepper, and butter. A small amount of water or orange juice is added, and usually a sprinkling of sugar, especially when the liquid is orange juice.

Harvard Beets.

[Serves Four.]

8 medium cooked beets, sliced thinly
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons water
3 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter.

Mix salt, sugar, and cornstarch. Add water and vinegar and cook until thickened. Pour over sliced beets in the top of a double boiler and heat over boiling water for half an hour. Add butter just before serving.

Orange beets may be prepared by using orange juice in place of water and vinegar. Less sugar is needed with orange juice—three tablespoons should be plenty.

Baked Beets and Onions.

[Serves Four.]

8 medium beets, peeled and sliced thin
1 medium onion, sliced
2 tablespoons sugar
Salt, pepper
Butter
1 teaspoon lemon juice or vinegar
Water

Arrange raw sliced beets and onion by layers in greased casserole. Sprinkle with sugar, salt, and pepper and dot each layer with butter. Add lemon juice and water to cover the bottom of the casserole. Cover and bake at 375 degrees until the beets are tender, half an hour or longer.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: As a somewhat better than average bridge player I am occasionally asked for advice on bidding and play. Recently several persons have asked me if it is true that experts seldom finesse, or at least do so only as a last resort. It seems to me that many of your illustrations of strip plays, squeezes, and end-plays are over the head of the average player, and I feel that the little plum that was dropped in my lap in a recent rubber game might be a help. The strip and end-play in this hand should be quite clear to every one, for even I saw it at almost the first glance.

"The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 no trump	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

"West opened the club deuce. I cashed the heart ace and king. Then, when the queen failed to drop, I stripped both hands of clubs and then threw East on lead with the heart queen. As you will note, it did not matter much what East returned because either a spade or a diamond would take the finesse for me and, no matter where the queens were, I had the rest of the tricks. Yours for more hands of this kind!

"Mrs. J. H. R., Alabama."

I thoroughly agree that hands of this type are a pleasure to play and there is no excuse for any reasonably experienced declarer to go astray. However, I have seen precisely such hands as this played in the following manner:

Declarer wins the opening club lead and promptly attempts to guess the position of the heart queen. Not long ago, in a hand that was so close to this that it might have been a twin, a partner of mine, after winning the first trick, led the trump deuce to the ace and returned the jack, intending to play for a 2-2 break. But when West showed out on the second lead he was so disgusted that he said: "O, take your darned queen!" And East not only obliged but gratefully exited in a way that did my partner no good whatever.

It will be noted that in this particular hand it does South no vast amount of good to guess that East holds three hearts to the queen, because even if he picks up the queen on a finesse he then will be faced with the necessity of guessing another finesse in either diamonds or spades. The method of play actually used, that is taking out two rounds of trumps, then stripping the clubs, then forcing the holder of the trump queen on lead, is the method that would be used by every good player. It is not true [would that it were!] that experts finesse very rarely. They are forced to finesse a great deal more frequently than they like, but it is a fact that they exhaust every other possibility before taking a finesse that depends entirely on luck.

Dainty Clothes Are Featured in Style Showings

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Spring fashions and the first showings of early summer loot have settled a few questions. There is consistent emphasis on lingerie. The petticoat fever rages without any letup. Lovely afternoon dresses stress elegance in fabric. Lace and filmy, flowing chiffon make some of the most delectably flattering evening clothes ever hung out to tempt the susceptible shoppers.

One flowered chiffon gown is teamed with a fitted knee length coat of taffeta printed in the same pastel floral motifs as the gown. Another heartbreaker is of dull white chiffon with romantic garlands of purple and rosy pink flowers and enough jade green leaves to make the pattern most unusual.

A third is also of white with huge open square checks [about a foot wide] in coral color, and still a fourth is a carnival chiffon, printed with flowers and here and there an eye mask. Some mask prints have lace edged masks of black chiffon appliqued hither and yon over the printed dress.

Lace trims everything, and black lace is coming into the spotlight in every showing. Narrow black lace trims white organdy, accents flounces on floral prints, foams along the hemline of net and chiffon as well as silk. Cobweb black lace in a band goes around the crown of a snow white straw hat and then hangs in fluttering streamers down the back.

Black lace makes snug little bolero jackets to wear over any pastel colored frock you wear to afternoon or evening function. Black lace blouses, white blouses trimmed with black lace and insets of black lace, and entire gowns of the sooty black stuff provide some of the most glamorous fashions of the season.

The Housewife

The woman who has the task of selecting a new rug this spring is going to have that job lightened for her. There's now a single room in which she can view as many as 300 different colors in the new smooth and textured floor coverings.

So, no matter how subtle a tone she wants, no matter what color she has to match, she'll be successful, for among the 300 samples she's certain to find the perfect rug. There are some especially beautiful blues, there is a grand array of beige and light brown tones, and the grayed-rose and mint greens are other charming hues.

The widths of both frieze and smooth surface broadlooms are 9, 12, and 15 feet. EDITH WEIGLE.

Boston, Mass., April 16.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins won the Stanley cup, emblematic of world hockey supremacy, tonight as they whipped the Toronto Maple Leafs, 3 to 1, for the fourth time in the scheduled seven game series. It was the Bruins second Stanley cup in ten years.

Boston won the first game of the set, but the Leafs took the second in overtime to send the teams to Toronto tied, 1 to 1. The Bruins then took two straight over there and returned to Boston Garden tonight to put the finishing touch on their greatest season. A crowd of 16,891 jammed the Garden for the contest.

Succeed Hawks as Champions.

The Bruins, who also won the National Hockey league title, succeed the Chicago Blackhawks as world champions.

The trophy was presented to Capt. Cooney Weiland by President Frank Calder of the National Hockey league. Calder's presentation speech was drowned out by the roar of the crowd and the explosions of firecrackers. Weiland shares with Eddie Shore and Dit Clapper the distinction of playing on the last Boston Stanley cup team.

Again it was Roy Conacher of the famous Conacher clan who swung victory to the Bruins. The rookie wing scored 17 minutes through the second period to put Boston into the lead for good after having assisted Mel Hill on a first period goal which the Leafs later matched. Flash Hollett, big defense man, scored the other Boston goal.

It's Conacher Again!

Penalties provided scoring chances for both teams during the opening period. Drillon drew Toronto's first penalty, and Hill ended Boston's third five man rush by slamming a ten foot drive past Broda. Conacher and Cowley drew assists. Seven minutes later when Hill was off Kampmann tied the score with a fifty-five foot shot through Brimsek.

After hurling terrific force against the Leafs for 17 minutes, the Bruins went into a 2 to 1 lead on one of the neatest passing plays of the season. Shore launched it in his own zone, breaking up a Toronto charge and passing to Conacher. The brilliant Bruin rookie centered it to Cowley and then sped down the left lane in time to get his stick on Cowley's return pass, which he lashed past Broda for what proved the winning goal.

RAIN AND FLOOD THREATEN TWO MAJOR OPENERS

Ohio Rising; Washington Gloomy Over Weather.

Washington, D. C., April 16.—(AP)—Baseball gloom hung over the capital today.

The weather man predicted rain for tomorrow, when the Senators are scheduled to meet the world champion New York Yankees before President Roosevelt and a sellout crowd of 30,000.

There was other bad news, too, for the Washington fans—Buddy Lewis and Rick Ferrell—both regulars—are not likely to see duty for several days. Lewis has a throat infection and Ferrell split a finger in yesterday's exhibition game with Baltimore.

Roosevelt's Ready.

The only bright spot was an assurance by Mr. Roosevelt that his right arm is in good shape to throw out the first ball.

Manager Bucky Harris has decided to start his wild lefthander, Joe Krakauskas. The Yanks are planning to start Lefty Gomez, long a jinx to the Senators.

Clark Griffith, president of the Senators, said all reserved seats had been sold.

Prior to the game, members of the two teams are scheduled to go to Arlington cemetery to lay a wreath on the tomb of Gen. Abner Doubleday, the father of baseball. Griffith will make a short speech at the tomb.

Garner to Lead Parade.

Before the game starts Vice President Garner will lead a parade of both teams to the flagpole in center field where the stars and stripes will be hoisted.

REDS' 34,000 SEATS SOLD

Cincinnati, O., April 16.—(AP)—Menaced by high waters on one side and invading Pirates on the other, Bill McKechnie's Cincinnati Reds—No. 1 choice for the National league pennant—tomorrow go after their first opening day victory in seven years.

A capacity crowd of 34,000—the tickets are already sold—will sit in as the Reds meet Pittsburgh a day ahead of the rest of the senior league pack.

The "beautiful Ohio," swollen by upper valley rains, rose twelve feet in the last twenty-four hours, and if it comes up another eight feet in the next twenty-four hours the park would be flooded.

Reds Last Won in 1919.

Cincinnati won its last opening day game in 1932, beating the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 4. McKechnie said he would send his double no-hit star, Johnny Vander Meer, against the Pirates should the day be hazy. Otherwise, William [Bucky] Walters might get the call.

Manager Pie Traynor of the Buccaneers stuck to Cy Blanton as his mound choice.

To the Reds the contest will be the opening shot in the campaign for their first flag in twenty years. In 1919 Cincinnati captured the pennant, and then went on to win the world series in the clouded engagement with Chicago's White Sox.

DERRINGER AND LEE WILL PITCH CHICAGO OPENER

Leading Winners Meet at Wrigley Field.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The two winningest pitchers in the National league in 1938, Bill Lee of the Cubs and Paul Derringer of the Cincinnati Reds, are scheduled to oppose each other in the National league opener in Wrigley field tomorrow. Last season Bill led the Cubs to the pennant by winning twenty-two games and Paul helped the surprising Reds stay as high as fourth with twenty-one victories.

Derringer had one of his best years last season in the renaissance of the Reds. But in winning four and losing four he was far behind his usual percentage in Cub competition—and that goes for the years when he was pitching for the cellar Reds. Prior to last year's four and four, Derringer had won twenty-four and lost twelve to the Cubs.

They Split Last Year.

Lee last season won four games from the Reds and dropped only one. Previously he had been less than a .500 pitcher against the Reds—he had won four and lost six to the lads from Cincy when they were cellar inmates.

The experiences of Derringer and Lee weren't the only twistings of form. The Cubs and the Reds each won eleven games. And here's the screwy part—the Cubs won four and lost seven in their beloved Wrigley field and they won seven and lost four in Crosley field, the home of the Reds.

Several weeks ago Gabby Hartnett said he was not in the least panicked by gurgling reports coming out of Florida anent the Reds' pennant potentialities. We don't know what Gabby heard en route home, but the other day in Wichita he listed the Reds third to the Cubs and Giants in his pennant ratings. Earlier he had said he was pretty sure the Pirates would finish third and maybe the Cardinals would finish ahead of the Reds.

He Considers Jinx.

Gabby is a whiz at statistics. He admits, because he knows, that the Reds long have been tough for the Cubs when they were pushovers for most every other team in the league. He fears the Reds will be as tough as usual against the Cubs, but says they haven't reached the winning habit with several of the other teams and for that reason he does not believe they are to be rated outstanding pennant contenders. He does say they are a fine and coming team, well managed, and that as soon as they toss off some of their jinx complexes

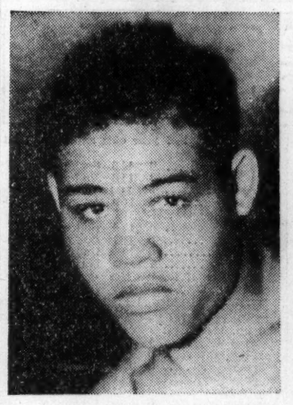
In Title Bout—California Variety



JOE LOUIS.

JACK ROPER.

The big problem tonight in Los Angeles is not whether Jack Roper, ancient heavyweight, has a chance to beat Joe Louis, but how long he will last.

Roper Exposes Ancient Chin to That Louis Touch Tonight

Los Angeles, Cal., April 16.—[Special.]—Fight fans of California and of the nation have something to look forward to tomorrow night when battle-scarred, 36 year old Jack Roper bids for Joe Louis' heavyweight boxing crown in a scheduled ten-round battle in Wrigley field here.

West coast fans will throng the place to see California's first heavyweight championship battle in thirty years.

Some 30,000 or more paid admissions and a gate grossing $100,000 are the official expectations, in round figures. With the heavyweight championship at stake, something that hasn't happened in California since Jack Johnson knocked out Stanley Ketchell in twelve rounds in 1909, the advance sale is by far the heaviest for any local fistic contest in recent years. Two days ago all the $2.50 reserved seats were sold out, and a good run was reported on the $3.50, $5.75, and $11.50 locations.

Louis Sneaks a Workout.

Abandoning his announced plan to spend the day resting, Louis had a private workout behind the locked doors of the gymnasium this afternoon. Trainer Jack Blackburn had no explanation for the change in plans except to say that "Joe felt like he'd like to do a little work."

Louis was pronounced in perfect shape for the sixth defense of his crown he batted off the aging brow of James J. Braddock in 1937. He will weigh 200 pounds, Roper 198.

For his "break" the 36 year old native of Magnolia, Miss., will get 10 per cent of the gate receipts, expected to hit around $100,000. Louis, it was disclosed, will get 45 per cent.

While Roper, a natural left hander, does not fight with the southpaw stance, the dynamite in his left looms as the one slim chance he might have of bothering the champion. Jack has trained faithfully for the match and, except for a slight scratch under one eye, will enter the ring in as nearly perfect condition as possible.

The California boxing commission has authorized Referee George Blake to do one of these three things if Roper's cut eye is involved:

1. Disqualify Louis should the eye be opened by an intentional butt.

2. Call the bout a draw should an unintentional Louis butt open the cut.

3. Award Louis a technical knockout should a bonafide punch open it.

ANOTHER MILLION FOR JOE

Detroit, Mich., April 16.—(AP)—Admirers of Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis indulged in some simple arithmetic today to show that the Brown Bomber's fists are about to gross him and his managers $1,000,000 for four fights—perhaps at the amazing rate of $140,000 or more a round.

Considering the last prevailing rate of exchange, Joe will be working on a $15,000-a-punch basis—in view of the three punch knockout of John Henry Lewis last January—so when he squares off against Jack Roper in Los Angeles tomorrow night Louis likely will be continuing one of the fastest accumulations of wealth in ring history.

Louis, at 25 already a rich man, began treading his newest golden road when he and his entourage collected $42,840 for the one round knockout of Lewis. From the predicted $100,000 gate for the Roper fight Joe will collect $45,000.

Taking the word of nearly all concerned, Louis will leave Los Angeles still champion—after perhaps a round or two—and go on to the June world's fair fight in New York with Tony Galento—also expected to last no longer than a round or two.

Can You Spare a Dime, Joe?

The Galento fight may draw $800,000, for which the Louis share of 42½ per cent would amount to $340,000. So there are three bouts—and a not illogical total of three rounds—and revenue of $427,800.

There will follow next a match with the winner of the Max Baer-Louis Nova bout, which is tentatively set for September. Promoter Mike Jacobs already has predicted a $1,000,000 gate for a return fight between Louis and Baer or Nova. That would be another $425,000 for Louis. Add to the four fights' grand total the income from movies and radio, and you'll easily reach the million.

Up to the fight with Lewis, the champion had grossed $1,339,787.

McCARTHY IS NO BILL TERRY; HE PICKS BROOKLYN

New York, April 16.—[Special.]—The Brooklyn Dodgers have a chance to win the National league pennant, the most successful manager in baseball, Joe McCarthy, said today. In his corner of the Ebbets field dugout today, the Yankees' pilot said: "The fans of Brooklyn have a right to hope for the flag. It is said any one can win in the National league scramble. So why not the Dodgers? Certainly they're not a team waiting to mature. They're ready right now."

Pegasus Greens Defeat Clover Leaf Trio, 14-7

Rockleigh, N. J., April 16.—[Special.]—A seven-goal scoring spree in the fourth chukker gave the Pegasus Greens a 14 to 7 victory over the Clover Leaf polo club of Westbury, N. Y., in the first round of the suburban polo tournament this afternoon.

DEAN IS READY, BUT IT'S ALL UP TO THE WEATHER

Rivals Make Fourth Attempt to Play.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The fans of Chicago, White Sox and Cub rooters alike, hope to have a chance today to pay their respects to Monty Stratton. They'll contribute their bit toward a fund to be turned over to the lad whose pitching career ended abruptly last fall when his right leg was amputated as the result of a hunting accident.

That is, the fans will contribute if the weather permits the Sox and Cubs to gather at Comiskey park at 2:30 o'clock. The official forecast at midnight last night read: "Rain Monday, fresh to probably strong east to northeast winds; continued cool." The annual spring series has been at a standstill for three days because of various meteorological interruptions, including rain, snow flurries, a plain winter chill in the air, and wet grounds.

And meanwhile the athletes who don't have to pay their spring keep until their pay starts with the opening of the regular season have been keeping in condition by nibbling on their employers' bankroll to the tune of four dollars per day per man, not to mention the cost of lodging.

Dean Will Start if——

If the Stratton benefit goes through as scheduled it will include the services of the great Diz Dean, who still is talking an excellent game although carrying the same right arm that necessitated more rest than work last season. The desire of the Cubs' board of health is to continue the Great Man in his leisure rôle, but as an added attraction he will be paraded today for at least one inning. If the weather is suitable he might stay a bit longer.

Should the temperature be too frigid even for athletes who have no infirmities, Managers Gabby Hartnett and James Dykes might toss most of their previously arranged pitching plans overboard. It was Dykes' intention to start Bill Dietrich, leave him in there for six or seven innings and follow with Art Herring. Hartnett originally intended Diz should go three or four innings. Just to cut down the risk of sore arms there may be three, or even four, pitchers employed by each team.

After Today's Game, if——

The Sox will start out tonight for Detroit, where they have an engagement with the Tigers tomorrow in the season's opener. It is still Dykes' intention to start the campaign with his kid battery—John Rigney and Ken Silvestri—in action. Silvestri showed during the spring battles that he can handle the mechanics of catching and all that Dykes now wants to see him do is hit big league pitching.

After today's chores, if there are any, the Cubs will have nothing to do but sit around until tomorrow afternoon when the Cincinnati Reds, widely suspected as pennant threats, show up at Wrigley field.

MATT, AUSTRIAN SKI ACE, WINS AT PINKHAM NOTCH

Pinkham Notch, N. H., April 16.—[Special.]—Toni Matt, Austrian professional racing instructor, won the third running of the American Inferno down-mountain ski race from summit to the base of Mount Washington today in the fast time of 6 minutes 29 2-5 seconds. The difficult course estimated at 3.8 miles long, has a vertical drop of 4,300 feet.

He maintained uncanny speed and control down the snow fields of the summit cone, the almost vertical 1,000 foot headwall of Tuckerman ravine, and the twisting pitches of the Sherburne trail. There were forty-four starters.

Matt was a full minute ahead of the national amateur champion, Dick Durrance of Dartmouth, who finished second in 7 minutes 29 seconds.

CELEBRON MEETS QUAILL TONIGHT ON NORTH SIDE

Starts Comeback Drive in Marigold Bout.

Billy Celebron, 1933 international Golden Gloves welterweight winner, will open a comeback campaign tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, when he boxes Al Quaill, rugged slugger from Pittsburgh, in a ten round bout.

If he can get off to a winning start he will be in line for a match with Nate Bolden for the right to be called Illinois' No. 1 middleweight challenger. Bolden, whose conquest of Oscar Rankin last Friday gave him recognition as Champion Solly Krieger's leading contender in this state, and Celebron were scheduled to meet last February, but the contest was canceled when Billy became ill.

Quaill will be making his second fight in this city. On Feb. 6 he suffered a defeat at the hands of Ken Overlin. In that appearance, however, Al demonstrated an aggressive style of milling. He also showed he can punch hard with his right.

Danny Wright, newcomer from Kalamazoo, Mich., will be tested by Eddie Meleski, hard hitting middleweight of the Catholic Youth organization, in the five round secondary feature. Other strangers on the card are Dean Baker, Kalamazoo 150 pounder, and Mike Raffa, Pittsburgh featherweight. Baker makes his Chicago debut against George Nyberg of Port Arthur, Ont., and Raffa meets Andy Canal of the south side. In a third preliminary, also set for four rounds, Meyer Alper, Montreal, Que., junior welterweight, faces Bill Reardon.

Alex Paul, Riverdale welterweight, and Al Stasanplus, Rockford, will meet in an amateur boxing headliner in Coulon's gymnasium, 1154 East 63d street, this evening. In other matches Barney Capus, Beloit, boxes Jack Fish; John Gervas, Beloit, faces Freddy Winesburg, and John Inglima, Beloit, tackles Bob Liggett, Blue Island. Sammy Mandell, former lightweight title holder, will second Stasanplus. . . . A bruised hand will force Frankie [Kid] Covelli, Brooklyn featherweight, to refuse a bout with Johnny Brown of the Catholic Youth organization in White City Friday. Covelli suffered the injury while scoring a four round technical knockout over Tommy De Bello of New York in Cedar Rapids, Ia., last week. . . . Amateur boxers of Peoria will meet a Chicago delegation in the Bill Rand Athletic club out on the south side Wednesday. . . . Bob Capocy, representative of Tony Musto, Blue Island heavyweight, has been suspended for two months for slugging Billy Williams at an Illinois athletic commission meeting last month. . . .

Mr. Angler! Here Is Good News for You

BY BOB BECKER.

Mr. Fisherman, if you want to fish for wall-eyed pike and white bass in the Lake Winnebago and Wolf river section of Wisconsin, you can start Thursday. The season on white bass, wall-eyes, pickerel [northern pike], perch, crappies, bluegills and several other species of fish in the Lake Winnebago-Wolf river waters opens that day.

This year Wisconsin is going to allow nonresidents to start fishing on that date if they have a Wisconsin license. The official date on the license is May 1, but Barney Devine, Wisconsin's chief conservation warden, says that the wardens will honor the 1939 license for April 20.

It's the First Time.

This is the first season that Illinois fishermen have been allowed to fish on April 20 in Wisconsin. In former years this special early season fishing around Lakes Winnebago, Winneconne, Poygan and connecting water was enjoyed only by residents of Wisconsin. Last year we registered our complaint on this situation with the conservation director, because the nonresident license permitted no April 20 fishing. He pointed out that the old law on nonresident licenses specified that such a license wasn't in force until May 1, so nothing could be done until the law was revised. The situation was a holdover from the old days when all fishing started on May 1, so naturally all licenses for nonresidents read May 1.

Thousands of northern Illinois fishermen will welcome this news that they may go into Wisconsin this week to try their luck with the wall-eyes, white bass and panfish. This early season, however, does NOT apply to the whole state.

This Is the Place.

One may fish only in the following waters: the waters of Lake Winnebago, in Lake Poygan, in Lake Butte des Morts, in Buffalo lake in Marquette county, in the Fox river in Winnebago, Marquette, Green Lake and Waushara counties, and in the Wolf river that flows into Lake Winnebago through several counties.

REGHEIMER WINS TITLE IN MIDWEST FENCING TOURNEY

Fencers' League of America which was held in the Ohio State university gymnasium today. Eighty entrants, twenty of them women, competed in the four divisions.

Loyal Tingley of the University of Chicago displaced Regheimer as champion in the epee division, and Bill Osis, St. Louis, won the saber. Carroll King, Chicago, won the women's foils.

Illinois won the team title, piling up 50 points, 10 more than the second place Michigan team. Ohio was third with 27, the northern Ohio district team fourth with 20, and St. Louis fifth with 18.

Hemsley Gets a Reprieve; Vitt an Assist

Cleveland, O., April 16.—(AP)—Rollie Hemsley was forgiven again today.

C. C. Slapnicka, vice president of the Cleveland Indians, said that the playful catcher, sent home by Manager Oscar Vitt for breaking training rules, would neither be fined nor suspended.

Slapnicka had a talk with Hemsley and then announced Rollie would work out with the team tomorrow and leave for St. Louis for Tuesday's season opener.

Vitt Intercedes.

The Cleveland official indicated that a long distance telephone plea from Vitt in New York influenced his decision to forgive Hemsley's third infraction of training rules since he came here in a 1938 trade with St. Louis. Vitt accused Hemsley of "ruining the sleep" of a carload of players with his night long antics last night.

Slapnicka made it clear today that Hemsley had "jeopardized" his chances of collecting a $5,000 bonus in his contract for exemplary behavior.

No Comment from Rollie.

The catcher's first run-in with the management came two weeks after he reported to the Indians' camp in New Orleans last season. He was suspended for ten days then. The second, in Detroit last April, brought a $250 fine.

Hemsley could not be reached for comment after his secret session with Slapnicka.

Revolta Makes It Official— He Did Six-Putt That Green

Revolta ran into a case of "putting jitters" the first day, taking six putts on a par three hole.

[From April 9 dispatch on Land of the Sky open golf tournament in Asheville, N. C.]

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Six putts on a par three hole?

When Chicagoans read that paragraph on the morning of April 10 they blinked their eyes and finally shrugged it off as a typographical error. John Revolta, one of the most effective putters who ever stood up to a golf ball, taking six putts on a par three hole? Why, the idea was fantastic. Not even the lowliest duffer would admit to six strokes on a single green, let alone believe that Revolta would be guilty of same, and in a $5,000 show at that.

Revolta Confesses All.

Now it can be told. Revolta did take six,—count 'em, six—swings with his putter on the seventh hole of the first round of the Land of the Sky tournament in Asheville, N. C. We didn't believe it, either, until John, now returned to his post as professional at the Evanston Country club, put both of his huge paws on a copy of the rules of golf and swore that he had taken six putts on that green. Just to make certain that all the skeptics might be convinced, John even drew the accompanying charts of his strange progress from the tee to the hole.

The seventh hole of that first round at the Asheville Country club was played into a stout wind that day. The hole measures 225 yards, the chief hazard being a creek which runs alongside the right border of the fairway, aided and abetted by a number of trees near the green. The pin was on a slope on the right center of the green.

Before going into his putting dance, Revolta had taken two shots to reach the putting surface, so that he went away from it with the unusual total of eight, five over par.

Here 'Tis—Putt by Putt.

Here is the record of those eight shots, as told by Revolta himself:

1—Slices drive over creek, leaving himself a second shot blocked by one of the aforementioned trees.

2—Hits a nice niblick second, carrying the tree and landing in the center of the green twenty feet to the left of the cup.

3—His first putt hits the hole and overruns it four feet.

4—His second putt wanders to the left and down the slope, ending up another four feet away.

5—His third putt goes three feet over the pin, up the slope.

6—His fourth putt runs down the slope another yard past.

7—His fifth putt, hit cautiously, stops three inches short of the hole.

8—His sixth putt drops in the hole.

Revolta was playing with Dick Metz and Henry Picard in that first round, and Picard was keeping Revolta's score. "How many, John?" he asked. Revolta at first said seven, but a recheck revealed eight, and so it went on the card.

Climax to a Bad Winter.

Asked for an explanation of this weird exhibition, the curly haired Evanstonian replied:

"I had been putting badly all winter. In fact, I have had more three putt greens this season than any other in my six years of tournament golf. After missing that second putt, I seemed to lose all sense of equilibrium. The strange thing about it all is that for the rest of the round and the whole tournament, I appeared to regain my touch, and putted better than I had in any other tournament of the year."

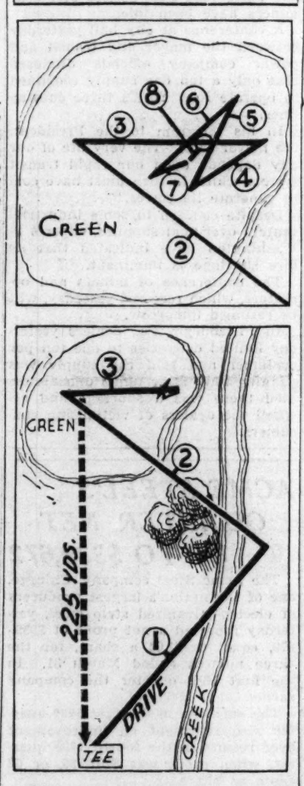
Proof of that latter statement is revealed in the final standings of the Asheville event. Revolta tied for second with Benny Hogan, only one stroke back of the winner, Metz. Had he made it in two after reaching the green in two in the first round, John would have coasted home by three shots.

Putting Jitters Not Unusual.

Revolta ranks with Horton Smith and Paul Runyan as one of the sharpest of modern golf's short players. He points out that it can happen to the best of them, however. Playing with Runyan in the Atlanta open over the Eastlake course some years ago, John and Paul each took four putts on the same green. Picard, Revolta's longtime pal, needed five swings on one green during the 1938 North and South open at Pinehurst.

There are those who immediately upon hearing of Johnny's six-putter in Asheville, recall his first round match against Water Hagen in the 1935 national P. G. A. at Oklahoma City, ultimately won by Revolta. Hagen played flawless golf all the way around, while Revolta was in every trap on the course. On the back nine, he escaped from seven bunkers for seven one-putt greens and a 1 up victory. The Asheville debacle may be just payment for that Oklahoma City splurge.

Yes, It Can Be Done



The above diagrams are not charts of the Milky Way nor of the Notre Dame shift. They outline the eight shots, including six putts, which John Revolta, Evanston pro, took on a par 3 hole in the Asheville tournament.

DERRINGER AND LEE WILL PITCH CHICAGO OPENER

they will be regular bidders for the National league championship.

Here are some of the series the Reds lost last year. They lost in Pittsburgh, 8 games to 3 and in Boston 5 games to 4 and at home they lost to Boston and Brooklyn, each 6 games to 5. In addition to losing the series in Boston and Cincinnati against the fifth place Bees and their home series against seventh place Brooklyn, the Reds stubbed their toes in spots where they should have been fattening up. Then, too, the Reds had no such sweeps as the Cubs' 10 games to 1 in Philadelphia. The Cubs beat Philadelphia 18 out of 22 and the Reds beat 'em 14 out of 21. Slack like this is what the Reds have not learned to take up.

Gabby Want's 'Em All.

The Reds, in rising from last in 1937 to fourth in 1938, showed much improvement, of course. And while he may underrate them against other teams, Hartnett certainly doesn't sell the Cincy fellows short in his own schedule. He is out to knock off the Reds each and every time it is possible and will save no powder for series immediately subsequent to meetings with the Reds.

The Cubs will have five opportunities this month to shake off or acknowledge the Red menace. Weather permitting, the Reds will play here tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday. On April 27 and 28 the Cubs will go to Cincinnati. On April 29 and 30 the Cubs will be playing the Cardinals in Chicago while the Reds will be in their most harrowing ball park, Forbes field, Pittsburgh.

But enough of this distant future and past stuff. The fact at hand is that Bill Lee is slated to oppose Paul Derringer in the season opener tomorrow. And that should be enough bait for any fan's dough, even if Jack Bramhall and his band don't get to the park for their 47th Cub opener. With Jack and his boys scheduled the attraction virtually is irresistable.

Remembrance.

Bring back the days of long ago
When life was in its fragrant spring,
The happy days we used to know
When all the world was blossoming;
Before our locks were tinged with gray,
When innocence shone in our eyes,
Bring back the dreams of yesterday,
Ere we had grown so worldly wise.

Bring back the friends who long have lain
Beneath love's consecrated loam,
Upon whose graves our tears like rain
Have fallen in the silent gloam;
And let us tread the old, old ways
That wind through groves of memory,
The primrose paths of other days,
Of happy days that used to be.

IOWA TO OPEN TITLE DEFENSE AGAINST PURDUE

Iowa City, Ia., April 16.—[Special.]—Iowa's veteran baseball team, co-champion of the Big Ten, will open its conference season against Purdue here tomorrow and Tuesday.

The games will be the first ever played between the two schools. Iowa, victorious in six of its seven games on a road trip, will depend on a heavy hitting outfield and three veteran pitchers in the conference race.

The Hawkeyes swept their three game series with Millsaps, won two out of three from Louisiana Tech, and defeated St. Louis University on the southern trip.

MAROONS MEET IRISH

"He won't do it again," is the battle cry of the University of Chicago baseball team, which meets Notre Dame at Notre Dame tomorrow. The chant refers to Mike Mandjiak's no hit victory over the Maroon nine last year on the Notre Dame field.

Chicago players hope Notre Dame starts the Kalamazoo southpaw, who fanned 17 Chicago players to win the game last year, 5 to 0.

Chicago winds up its nonconference season with home-and-home contests against the Irish nine. The return game is scheduled for next week on the Midway.

Art Lopatka, brilliant sophomore left hander, will probably pitch for Chicago. Lopatka has turned in two two hit games in his first year of college ball, and he has not surrendered more than five hits in any game.

William [Sparky] Calogeratos, Maroon second base regular, still is on the bench with a wrenched shoulder, but he will probably be in the lineup in the Purdue game Saturday. Co-Capt. Larry Klass, regular shortstop, has been moved to second base in place of Calogeratos, while his spot is filled by Sophomore Dennis Cowan.

FOR THE 1 MAN IN 7 WHO SHAVES EVERY DAY

A SPECIAL SHAVE CREAM

IT'S NOT A SOAP
NEEDS NO SHAVING BRUSH
Not Greasy . . Leaves Skin Soft

Daily shaving leaves many men's faces raw and sensitive. Yet, because of his business and social status, one out of every 7 men is required to shave every day.

To meet this condition, Williams has now developed a special cream for daily shavers. It's called Glider. With no soap base, it's a complete departure from ordinary shave creams. After washing face thoroughly with soap and warm water to remove razor-dulling grit, spread on Glider quickly and easily with your fingers. No brush. No lather. Not sticky or greasy.

A superabundance of moisture is contained in this rich, smooth cream. It softens each whisker right down to the skin, yet forms a protective layer over your face to keep blade from scraping. Swiftly and gently your razor glides over your skin without tearing or irritating. Like a cold cream, Glider helps smooth and soften your skin and prevent chapping and roughness. Glider is the result of nearly 100 years' experience in making fine shaving preparations.

MAKERS OF BOOK PAPER ACCUSED OF PRICE FIXING

Washington, D. C., April 16.—(AP)—The federal trade commission today accused the Book Paper Manufacturers association of New York, and forty-five member manufacturers of a conspiracy to control prices of book paper.

The commission said the manufacturers produce about 86 per cent of the total volume of book paper, coated paper and similar papers.

The complaint issued by the commission alleged that the respondents had divided the United States into four zones for purposes of fixing "base prices."

DAY by DAY on the FARM

by HOMER ONEISZ

Get Lawns Ready

LAWNS at the Du Page county farm are getting their regular spring overhauling. Bare spots are being worked up and reseeded. This is done each spring in order to insure a thick, green sod during the summer.

The biggest problem is to keep good stands of grass under maple, horse chestnut and poplar trees, and on the north sides of buildings where but little sunlight ever reaches the ground. New seeds must be sown each year in the shadiest places. The open lawns give far less trouble.

Give Grass Head Start.

Seeds are put on early in the spring as soon as the ground can be worked and before leaves come out on the trees. This gives the grass a chance to get started before the ground is densely shaded and before the trees begin taking up large amounts of moisture and plant food. Once the grass is well established it can be kept growing throughout the summer, but usually dies the following winter.

Before seeding the bare spots the soil is worked into a good seed bed. It is loosened to a depth of about six inches unless tree roots interfere, in which case the surface is top dressed with enough rich soil to make a seed bed of the required depth. The men have found that a satisfactory seed bed cannot be made by ordinary raking.

Plant food is worked into the soil, because trees are gross feeders and take most of the food from the grass. Either complete commercial fertilizers or barnyard manure is used.

The manure is put on during the winter and then worked into the soil at seeding time. Any coarse litter is raked away. When commercial fertilizers are used, about twice the amount recommended for open ground is applied. Fertilizer is mixed with the soil a few days before the seeds are sown.

A Mixture for Shade.

The seed mixture that has proved most satisfactory for deep shade consists of equal parts of rough stalked meadow grass, wood meadow grass, and meadow fescue. No Kentucky blue grass is included. The mixture is sown at the rate of about three pounds of seed to 100 square feet. The actual amount of seed depends upon the density of shade, the deeper the shade, the more seeds are put on. The seeds are raked in with a garden rake. Then the soil is rolled.

Tips on Trampling.

Small amounts of poa annua [annual blue grass] sometimes are sprinkled in with the seed mixture for spots that are trampled a lot during the summer. This grass stands tramping better than the others.

Shaded lawns require heavy sprinkling after the trees leaf out. Trees serve as umbrellas, draining rain water off at the tips of the branches. The tree roots also take up much of the moisture in the soil, leaving the surface too dry for the grass to grow well.

A lawn mixture that has given good results under moderate shade consists of 45 per cent rough stalked meadow grass, 45 per cent Chewing's fescue, and 10 per cent poa annua.

New York, April 16.—[Special.]—Wall street's mood brightened last week as the stock market achieved a sharp recovery. Stocks in all sections made gains ranging from fractions to 8 points. It was the first week since March 11 that the market had shown a net weekly gain in all divisions.

After setting a new low mark of 120.04 on Tuesday, the Dow-Jones industrial index bounded ahead to finish the week at 129.61, a rise of 8.17 points for the period.

The European situation still dominated the thoughts of traders but the news from abroad was considered to be of a calmer nature. Technical conditions within the market itself also were regarded as influences.

See An "Out" for Dictators.

At the end of the week the market staged a rally of 1 to 4 points in response to President Roosevelt's peace appeal to Germany and Italy. Traders felt that this gave the dictators an "out" which they could accept without losing face.

The rise in stocks came in the face of discouraging news at home. Weighed down by the recent war fears and the lack of any effective steps by the administration to remove obstacles to business, the industrial rate slackened.

Nevertheless, all sections of the stock market worked forward. Those issues which had been hit hardest appeared to make the fastest comeback. Steel stocks, which had been one of the weakest groups, rallied briskly. United States Steel was bid up 4 points to 49⅛, Bethlehem finished with a gain of 5¼ points, and Republic Steel rose 2 points.

Chrysler Is Gainer.

Chrysler was up 5½ points in the motors and General Motors rose more than 4 points.

Among the more sensitive issues Allied Chemical rose 8 points, du Pont 11, Philip Morris 8¼, and Westinghouse 8.

At the start of the week the market seemed to be suffering from a hangover of the preceding Saturday, when the list had one of its worst breaks of the year. Numerous margin calls went out over the week-end, but the response was good and after early selling the market closed in a burst of strength.

Fresh nervousness over the European situation cropped out Tuesday and heavy liquidation swept over the market in the first few hours. Stocks then recuperated and made up virtually all of the earlier losses. Further gains were established Wednesday and Thursday. The market turned weak Friday but came back strongly Saturday.

MAIL RATE PAID MID-CONTINENT, AIR LINE IS HIKED

Washington, D. C., April 16.—(AP)—In its first air mail rate decision, the civil aeronautics authority today increased the compensation of Mid-Continent Airlines, Inc.

Mid-Continent has been receiving 33⅓ cents a mile on a base monthly mileage of 67,000, with added compensation for increased mileage flown and for more than 300 pounds of mail carried. The authority increased this to 38 cents a mile for 300 pounds of mail with 2.5 per cent of that rate for each additional 25 pounds, the rate to apply on direct airport-to-airport mileage. Officials said the change would increase Mid-Continent's mail revenue $45,000 annually.

Mid-Continent's line runs from Tulsa, Okla., via Kansas City and St. Joseph, Mo.; Omaha, Neb.; Sioux City, Ia.; Sioux Falls, Huron and Watertown, S. D., to Minneapolis, Minn., and from Huron via Aberdeen, S. D. to Bismark, N. D.

LA GUARDIA APPEALS FOR ROOSEVELT AID IN COAL PACT EFFORT

New York, April 16.—(AP)—Mayor La Guardia of New York City today appealed to President Roosevelt to use his "good offices" to bring the Appalachian bituminous coal operators and the United Mine Workers [C. I. O.] to an agreement on a new wage-hour contract.

The mayor's appeal, in a telegram to the President, followed an unsuccessful effort of the mayor himself to obtain a settlement of differences that have deadlocked negotiations in contract discussions for more than a month.

The old contract expired March 31 and since that time 338,000 soft coal miners have been idle.

A conference at city hall yesterday between the mayor and transit and power company officials disclosed that only a ten day supply remained to operate New York's three subway lines.

In his telegram to the President, the mayor said, "The very life of our city depends upon our rapid transit system which in turn must have coal to generate its power."

Despite concern in some industrial centers over coal supplies, experts in Washington have indicated that no dire shortage is imminent.

The conference of miners and operators, which recessed yeserday, will be resumed tomorrow.

In Pittsburgh, Pa., dealers yesterday limited deliveries to one ton per customer and said the supply was running low. Mine union officials denied there was a shortage and accused the dealers of victimizing consumers.

ACME STEEL'S QUARTER NET UP TO $339,672

The Acme Steel company, Chicago, one of the nation's largest producers of electro-galvanized strip steel, yesterday reported a net profit of $339,672, equal to $1.04 a share, for the three months ended March 31. In the first 1938 quarter the company earned only $969.

The earnings in the first 1939 quarter also represent an improvement over results in the fourth 1938 quarter, when profit was $202,726, or 62 cents as share.

Net incomes of companies reporting yesterday were:

STEEL ORDERS, OUTPUT SHOW MODERATE DIP

Moderate declines in demand and production occurred last week in the steel industry, the magazine Steel reported yesterday. The decline in operations during the next month or two will be gradual, it predicted.

National ingot production last week fell 2 points to 51.5 per cent of capacity. The operating rate equaled the previous low for this year, but was far ahead of 32 per cent a year ago.

The brunt of the reduction in steel output fell on mills in the automobile manufacturing areas.

Detroit district operations tumbled 10 points to 59 per cent and the Cleveland rate fell 13 points to 39.5 per cent. Chicago area operations were unchanged at 53.5 per cent.

The sag in steel production caused scrap prices to weaken. The magazine's composite price for scrap was lowered 58 cents to $14.46 a ton.

Commercial Credit Offers Change in Auto Financing

The Commercial Credit company of Baltimore, one of the nation's leading instalment financing companies, yesterday announced a new plan for financing the purchase of new automobiles. Frank R. Eddy, regional manager, said the company will guarantee the purchaser that his financing costs will not exceed a certain established rate, plus the cost of necessary insurance coverage.

President Roosevelt Will Address Retailers' Forum

Washington, D. C., April 16.—(AP)—The American Retail federation announced today that President Roosevelt would address a retailers' national forum here May 22.

U. S. TO PUBLISH NEW HANDBOOK FOR BUSINESS

Washington, D. C., April 16.—[Special.]—The department of commerce today announced plans for the distribution during the summer of a new business service.

It will be known as the "Industrial Market Data Handbook" and will represent the first marketing survey of American industry that has been presented in this form. It was originally requested by the National Industrial Advertisers' association. The manuscript, comprising about 1,000 pages, is expected to be off the press by July 1.

The handbook will contain figures on industrial production, employment, value of products, cost of material for the more than 3,000 counties in the United States, comparable data for every city of more than 10,000 population, and similar information for industries on a national rather than a county basis.

SALE OF SHARES BY CONTINENTAL MOTORS PLANNED

The Continental Motors corporation will sell 551,348 shares of common stock shortly and use the proceeds to augment its working capital, William R. Angell, president, announced yesterday. He said the issue would probably be registered with the Securities and Exchange commission today.

The company, which builds automobile, airplane, and industrial motors, had sales in excess of $2,900,000 in the five months ended March 31, representing an increase of 20.4 per cent over the corresponding months of the preceding fiscal year, Angell said. Sales for March were at the highest level in nine years, he added.

FOR SAFEKEEPING.

Investors' Guide: I have just bought two $75 government baby bonds and want to keep them in a safe place. The postoffice which sold them refuses to hold them for me and I do not have a safety deposit box. Is any provision made by the government for safekeeping of these baby bonds?—Mrs. R. M. T.

Answer: Yes, the twelve federal reserve banks have been authorized by the treasury department to act as safekeeping agents for baby bonds. There is no charge for the service.

Your postmaster will furnish you with an application blank to fill out and forward with your bonds to the nearest federal reserve bank. Be sure to use registered mail. The federal reserve bank will send you a receipt for your bonds.

COMMODITY CORPORATION.

Investors' Guide: I am curious to know how Commodity corporation has fared since it was set up a few years ago. As I understand it, this company operates an "investment trust" in commodities rather than in stocks and bonds. Has it attracted many commodity "investors"?—B. R. O.

Commodity corporation has operated at a loss in the last two years. Founded in 1935, it has engaged chiefly in the buying and selling of commodities and of commodity futures, but the erratic movements of prices have made profitable speculation difficult.

The net asset value per share, based, of course, on liquidating values of commodities and contracts held, declined to $9.77 at the end of 1938 from $11.04 a year earlier and $34.46 at the end of 1936.

Total assets on Dec. 31, 1938, amounted to $569,000. Commodities owned outright were carried at a cost value of $325,000, but had a market value of only $274,000. Futures contracts, however, had a market value of $129,000, or $8,000 more than the cost figure at which they were shown on the balance sheet.

Net losses were $46,000 in 1938 and $77,000 in 1937. A net profit of $4,340 was earned in 1936.

At the end of last year there were 36,700 shares of stock outstanding. The corporation is required to repurchase any of its stock at the liquidating value less 1.5 per cent.

U. S. Engineer Office, 816 U. S. Court House and Custom House, St. Louis, Mo. Sealed bids for constructing a Power Control and Lighting System for Lock and Dam No. 24, Mississippi River, Clarksville, Mo., received until 10:30 A. M., May 5, 1939. Plans secured on deposit of $15.00 in form of CERTIFIED CHECK or POSTAL MONEY ORDER payable to "Disbursing Officer, U. S. Engineer Office, St. Louis, Mo." Further information on application.

SILVER BUYING GOAL BUT LITTLE NEARER AFTER FOUR YEARS

New York, April 16.—[Special.]—The United States treasury still faces the necessity of buying about 90 per cent as much silver as was originally required when the silver purchase act was enacted more than four and a half years ago, the Standard Statistics company said today.

When the act was passed the nation's gold reserves were $7,850,000,000. The law called for silver reserves of one-third of the gold reserves, or $2,617,000,000 at that time.

There being $898,200,000 of silver in circulation and reserves, the treasury was thus obliged to buy $1,718,800,000 of silver at $1.293 an ounce, or 1,330,000,000 ounces.

This was six times the average annual output of the whole world in the ten preceding years, and twenty times the average annual domestic production, Standard Statistics company said.

Since June, 1934, the nation's gold reserves have mounted to more than $15,000,000,000. Applying the ratio of the silver purchase act, $5,000,000,000 of silver is now required, or about 3,860,000,000 ounces at $1.293 an ounce.

Thus the United States treasury is still short $1,650,000,000 or 1,200,000,000 ounces of reaching the ratio to gold which the law prescribes.

BUSINESS GROUP TO SHAPE PLANS FOR CIVIC DRIVE

One hundred and thirty Chicago business leaders will meet at noon today at the Union League club to plan a campaign to revitalize the city's economic and industrial life. The program is sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The conferees comprise the executive committee of the newly created Greater Chicago campaign. This group hopes to develop Chicago as a more attractive tourist center, draw new industries and consolidate scattered business interests in outlying sections into a more closely knit civic unity.

Among the members of the committee are Philip D. Armour, Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Walter J. Cummings, Samuel Insull Jr., John T. Pirie, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., and Col. A. A. Sprague.

The average speed of freight trains is 61 per cent higher than in 1920. The object of the tests will be to improve the safety factor, increase the speed of freight trains, reduce wear and tear on equipment and track, and increase operating efficiency.
